Mr. M. Carey having submitted to my inspection a specimen of his standing edition of the Bible, justice to unexampled merit impels me to bear testimony, after much investigation, that in my opinion for elegance of type, excellence of paper, natural, and picturesque engravings, neat execution, and collation of marginal references, evincing sound judgement and good taste; it has rarely been equalled, never excelled across the Atlantic—even where establishment has vested the exclusive right of printing and publishing the sacred text in its favoured individual.

John Glencky,
Minister, 2d Presbyterian Church, Baltimore.

Extract from the minutes of the Philadelphia Baptist Association, held at Cohanzey, Oct. 1803.

"This association recommends to the Churches the edition of the Bible now publishing by Mr. Mathew Carey, Philadelphia, as worthy their patronage."

Baltimore Oct. 24, 1803.

We whose names are hereunto subscribed having examined a specimen of Mr. Mathew Carey's Bible, now printing, do judge the paper to be good, the printing of a superior style, and the engravings to be neat and well executed. We therefore sincerely wish the work may be encouraged, as we believe it merits general patronage.

Joshua Wells,
Samuel Coates.

Minutes of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Philadelphia, August 30, 1803.

Dear Sir,

THE Scriptures being the only unerring guide in matters of religion, it affords me peculiar satisfaction to find, that throughout our highly favoured land, there exists such a demand for the Oracles of Truth, as to require repeated editions of the same.

It was with with sincere pleasure, that I subscribed the just testimonial, which was so readily granted you, by my ministering brethren ,in behalf of your] late edition of the Holy Bible.

The encomium, so cheerfully bestowed at that time, appears, from the specimen you have sent me of your proposed "standing edition" of the Sacred Volume, to be increasingly applicable.

The paper, the printing, the engravings, as far as the specimen goes, I have endeavored to examine with candor, and am disposed to assure the public, that, in my opinion, the important and very arduous undertaking in question, will be richly entitled to the most liberal patronage.

The types, the paper, and the engravings, being wholly of American manufacture, ought to operate forcibly, throughout these United States, to the advantage of a work so laborious and ornamental.

The marginal references are numerous, and the selections judicious—their being taken principally from the pious Canne, is an additional recommendation of the work, to the serious reader of every christian denomination.

As the Bible is a golden and inexhaustible treasury of celestial truth, I cannot withhold my approbation so far as the same may respect your very laudible exertions towards the meritorous diffusion of the words of eternal life.

The Divine records are in themselves paramount to all eulogy—but, my dear sir, should these few lines, expressive of my warmest approbation, be the smallest service to your proposed "standing edition" of those records you are at liberty to make whatever use of the same you may judge proper.

Sincerely wishing that your truly laudable "attempt" in the designed publication may be richly rewarded by a generous community, the religious world, your own mind, and the glorious author of revelation himself.

I remain, very respectfully, yours,

William Rogers.

Mr. M. Carey.

September 1st, 1803.

Dear Sir,

It is with heartfelt pleasure, I sit down to conform with your request. A work of such magnitude and usefulness, deserves not only the recommendation, but the patronage of every lover of religion, of morals and the arts, in a country like this, where knowledge of this nature, the more it is diffused, will serve as a counterbalance to many of the growing evils of society; for the true peace and prosperity of a country depends on a knowledge of true religion, and the morality which it teaches. This your arduous undertaking is best calculated to promote and extend—add to this, the far happier effect of eternal advantage.

The paper, type, and printing, are equal to almost any I have seen—and as all are of American manufacture, and done in so handsome a style, you deserve great credit for your competition with the previleged printers of Europe.

Wishing you every success, I do warmly recommend this edition to every lover of our Lord and Savior.

I remain yours. &c.

Geo. Potts. V. D. M.
Pastor of the fourth presbyterian church in Philadelphia.

Mr. M. Carey.

Philadelphia, Sept. 1, 1803.

Sir,

I have examined the specimen you sent me, of the paper, printing and engravings of your standing edition of the bible, and am happy to express my cordial approbation of the work. The printing and engravings are certainly executed in a superior style. The paper is of a good quality, and the marginal references are numerous and valuable. Considered merely as an instance of the improvement of our country, in arts and manufactures, it merits a favourable reception from the American public.

I have only to add my best wishes, that the great expence you have incurred in the execution of this arduous work, may soon be remunerated, by its rapid and extensive sale.

Philip Milledoler,
Pastor of the third presbyterian church in Philadelphia.

Mr. Mathew Carey.

I have examined the specimen of the printing and engravings of Mr. Mathew Carey's edition of the Bible, and do pronounce them (as far as I am able to judge) to be of a very superior kind, and entitled in a very eminent degree to general approbation and encouragement. The types, paper, and engravings being of American manufacture, are more particularly deserving of attention.

James Gamble,
Of the senate of Pennsylvania.

I am of opinion that the specimen given of Mr. Cary's edition of the quarto Bible above mentioned, is really worthy the patronage of booksellers throughout the Union, and of private families, who accustom themselves to this valuable book.

W. W. Woodward.
Printer and Bookseller.

Philadelphia, Sep. 2, 1803

Sir,

The specimen of the standing edition of your quarto Bible I have received. I am much pleased with the execution of the work. It does credit to your industry and enterprize.—A suitable reward, I hope, awaits your exertions to promote arts, manufactures and religion in the United States.

I am, sir, your humble servant.

John M'Cullough

Mr. Carey.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8. 1803.

I received your letter with the specimen of your edition of the bible, and have, as you required, examined it with attention—I am much pleased with the design, and highly approve of the execution. It must afford pleasure to every true American to see the useful arts beginning to flourish among us, and to vie with those of European nations in elegance and perfection. Much praise is due to the enterprising citizen who hazards much in promoting so desirable an effect; and I sincerely hope your endeavors may call forth much of that public spirit, which is wont to exert itself on occasions of this nature, and meet that encouragement which your industry deserves,

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

Samuel Hodgdon.

Mr. Carey.

Philadelphia, Oct. 30, 1803.

Sir,

I received the elegant specimen of the paper, printing, and engravings of your edition of the bible: and after perusing the testimony which has been so justly given in favor of the undertaking, by a number of the respectable literary characters of our country, it is with diffidence I presume to offer an opinion; I cannot, however, refrain from saying, that I think the work will do yourself and other artists of the United States much honor.

Your design is extensive, and will certainly be attended with much labour and expence but it is sincerely hoped that its merits, and usefulness to society will be duly appreciated by a discerning public; and I am inclined to believe that the price will be deemed moderate.

The maps will lead the reader to a knowledge of the countries, where most, if not all the scenes were acted, that are recorded in the holy scriptures; and be both instructive and entertaining.

The historical engravings will be a great addition to the appearance and beauty of the book, and we may suppose that the examination of them will tend to impress the mind more strongly with the recollection of the occurrences, to which they have a reference.

I am, sir, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,

Matthew M'Connell.

Mr. Carey.

As far as I have examined Mr. Carey's edition of the bible, I have found it to be correctly, and neatly printed. The tables, maps, and other important matters which are connected with it, render it highly estimable and worthy of general use, by families and individuals in the United States.
