PREFACE.

THE preparation of this history of the White Ancestry was commenced nearly seven years ago, but the research greatly exceeded the original plans of both the family and myself, as it was only intended to prepare a MS. account of the White, Stockton, Gardiner, and Elton families. The result, however, was considered sufficiently satisfactory to warrant further investigation, and I was permitted to enlarge the scope of the work.

With this object in view I visited various localities in the States of New York, New Jersey, Ohio, North Carolina, and Virginia, concluding with a voyage to England in the spring of 1883, and another in December of 1884; the result of the researches made during those trips being embodied in some seventeen pedigrees, which the White family have finally decided to publish, in order that the information, gained at so much trouble and expense, may be preserved in a form accessible to all the descendants of those families, to whom I now have the honor of submitting the pedigrees, feeling confident that, while it is almost impossible to avoid some defects in a work of this character, no one can take exception to the facts, as each generation of the several pedigrees is established by what I conscientiously believe to be ample and authentic evidence, much of which will be found in the copies of wills and other documents contained in the Appendix. In all cases, however, reference is given to the authorities, so that any one feeling a particular interest in any of the families can verify my statements.

In arranging the pedigrees I have devoted a chapter to each family, making the White family the first, and the first family into which they married the second, etc., giving a reference to the whole chapter when it is desired to indicate the ancestry of a person named, and reference to a particular page when it is only intended to call attention to a marriage and the descendants thereof. In transcribing dates I have adhered strictly to the records of the time, and must request any one who notices any apparent discrepancies to bear in mind that previous to the year 1752, when the Gregorian Calendar was adopted in England by Act of Parliament, the legal year began on the 25th of March. That act, which also affected the colonies, decreed that eleven nominal days should be omitted, the last day of the old style being Wednesday the 2d, and the first day of the new style (the next day) Thursday the 14th, instead of September the 3d, 1752, and the legal year, which had previously been held to begin on the 25th of March, was made to begin on the 1st of January.

In conclusion, I have great pleasure in acknowledging a deep sense of obligation to Dr. James W. White and his son Prof. J. William White for their kind encouragement and appreciation of my labors, and expressing gratitude for the advice and assistance which I have received at the hands of the Right Rev. the Bishop of Down; the Rev. ## CHAPTER I.

WHITE FAMILY.

THE WHITE family were among the early arrivals in Virginia, and presumably came from England, as the name at that early date was not so general in Ireland, and the profession of the first settler of the name rendered it improbable that he was an Irishman. He was the Rev. George White, a clergyman of the Church of England, who in June, 1635, obtained a grant of 200 acres on the "Rauzemund River," and subsequently other large grants of land in what was then New Norfolk County, but which has since been subdivided. In 1637 his wife Blanche and their son Peter were mentioned, and in 1648 allusion is made to a wife Margaret. In 1639 a James White obtained a grant of 350 acres in James City County, and in 1644 a John White a grant of a building lot in James City, which was "bounded on the west by the Church Yard." What relationship these persons bore to the Rev. Mr. White, the first of the name in the province, the compiler is unable to say, as the county records of wills, conveyances, etc., were either destroyed or lost during the late war; but it seems highly probable that they were in some way connected with him, and possibly were brothers of Henry White, ancestor of the North Carolina family, who arrived in the province about that time and took up land in the same county.*

Unfortunately the compiler has not been able to connect them with any family in the "Old Country," nor to obtain any information about the Rev. George White which would afford a clew to the ancestry of the others of the name in Virginia, though he visited England twice, when he examined all the likely sources of information, including the registers of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, which contain wills from all parts of the kingdom; besides examining the local wills of the County of Wilts, and the parish registers of Charlton, in that county, where a family of Whites resided, among whom the name of Henry is frequently found. Owing to the great number of English families of the name, he was reluctantly obliged to give up the quest, as he felt convinced that all researches, short of an investigation of the family history of all the Whites in the three kingdoms, must prove futile unless evidence should be discovered in Virginia which would identify them with some particular locality.

I. HENRY WHITE, 1st, of James City County, Virginia, planter, was, as has been previously stated, probably the brother of James and John White. His name first appears July 4, 1649, when he received a grant of 200 acres of land "lying in Black Water, upon the easternmost branch, poynting up to Upper Chipokes, in the County of James Cittie, bounded east upon the s'd swamp, north upon the Land of ffrancis England, south towards the land of Peter Wall, and west into the woods." September 25, 1663, when styled "Senior,"—the grant to his son, who was styled "Junior," which is afterwards referred to, bearing the same date and being recorded on the same page,—he obtained a patent for 200 acres on the south side of the Carolina River. In February (12th mo., O. S.) of that year he, together with Peter Gill, obtained a grant of 1000 acres in Charles City County, and May 9, 1666, one for himself alone of 1800 acres in Accomac County.* It is probable that Henry White did not long survive this purchase, but the absence of any county records for that period renders it impossible to ascertain the exact year of his decease.

HENRY WHITE, 2d, of Little River, Pasquotank Precinct, Albemarle County, North Carolina, planter, (son of Henry, 1st, and ———,) born in 1635, and, September 25, 1663, obtained from the Governor of Virginia, Sir William Berkeley, Knt., who at that time claimed the right of granting land in North Carolina, a patent of 700 acres in that province, which is described as being "on a small creek called Corawtucks, that falls into the Koughtauk River." See Appendix II. In the patent the water-courses are described by their Indian names, but this land was situate in what was afterwards Pasquotank Precinct, the river referred to being the Little River, as appears by a deed dated April 16, 1717, when his eldest son, Robert White, in consideration of £100, conveyed to Robert Lowry "all that land lying "and being within the patent of the s'd Robert Lowry, which "belonged to the s'd Robert White as eldest son of Henry White, "dec'd, & which was granted to his father in a King's patent, "bearing date ye 25: 7<sup>br</sup> (September), 1663."* In 1696 the authorities of North Carolina granted to "Mr. Henry White" a tract of land in Pasquotank Precinct, containing 100 acres.†

Mr. White was one of the most prominent members of the Society of Friends, being a minister and recorder of the Little River Quarterly Meeting. The first book of records of that meeting is principally in his handwriting, and, besides the matter usually entered in records of that character, contains copies of several wills and an original sermon in verse entitled "The Fall of Man," written and recorded by Henry White. The quarterly and monthly meetings were usually held at his house at Little River, and the following record of his death shows in what esti-

† Bible in the possession of Mrs. Sarah Jane White, of Philadelphia.

“The intelligence of the sudden and unexpected termination of the career of one who seemed but a few days ago to be in the fullness of his strength, will be received with a sorrow equal to the sad surprise. Although he had so long since attained the leading position which he occupied, we naturally looked forward to many more years of usefulness for him in the work he loved so well, and in the duties which he discharged so faithfully. A life adorned by personal virtue, consecrated to worthy aims,—a life of usefulness to the world, and especially to the profession of dentistry,—is thus untimely ended.

“About the middle of November he had a slight congestion of the brain, from which he recovered quickly, but which was accepted by his physicians as an indication that he must at once seek a long-needed rest. In company with his son and daughter, and attended by his nephew, a physician, he sailed for Europe on November 19. He seemed to be rapidly gaining health and strength, until a little before Christmas a second attack of congestion occurred, to which he succumbed on the 30th of December. His remains were forwarded to his home, and, attended by his sorrowing family and friends, were consigned to the bosom of our common mother earth on the nineteenth day of January.

“Dr. White’s father died when he was eight years old. Soon afterwards his mother with her children removed to Burlington, New Jersey, where he resided until, at the age of fourteen, he was indentured to his uncle, Samuel W. Stockton, of Philadelphia, whose manufacture of mineral teeth was first in the United States to attain any commercial importance, to learn ‘the art and mystery of dentistry and the manufacture of incorruptible teeth.’

“On attaining his majority he commenced the practice of dentistry in his uncle’s office, and at the same time superintended his manufacturing department. In the following year (1844) he began the manufacture of teeth on his own account, in the garret of a dwelling-house at Seventh and Race streets, uniting with it the practice of dentistry in an office in the same building. This was the initiatory step in an enterprise which has since grown to be the largest of its kind in the world. In a short time he removed to Race street above Eighth, continuing both branches of his business. In 1845 he took in as partners Asabel Jones, of New York, and John R. McCurdy, of Philadelphia; in 1846 he relinquished the practice of dentistry in order that he might devote his entire time to the manufacture of porcelain teeth. The firm remained on Race street till 1849, when it removed to a property on Arch street below Sixth, which had been purchased and fitted up to accommodate the increasing business. In 1852 another removal to a still more commodious structure two doors below was necessitated. Branch houses were established, in New York in 1846; in Boston in 1850; in Chicago in 1858. Mr. McCurdy withdrew in 1859, and in 1861 Mr. Jones also retired, Dr. White purchasing the interests of both. In October, 1868, the imposing structure at the southeast corner of Chestnut and Twelfth streets, which had been erected by Dr. White, and fitted up expressly for the purpose, was occupied as a manufactory and depot.

“Dentistry as a fine art may be said to date its beginning from Dr. White’s entrance into business. The profession was in its infancy. The porcelain teeth which up to that time had been placed upon the market were in all respects but wretched imitations of the natural organs. To his persistent, sagacious efforts to produce better results were due the wonderful advances attained in the teeth of his manufacture even thirty years ago.

“The improvements in mineral teeth with which his name stands credited are numerous and important,—steady approaches toward perfection in many and various details. The older members of the profession will recall the progress made from time to time—the obstacles encountered and overcome: the translucency gained without the sacrifice of strength; the increased capability of resisting changes of temperature; the added strength with lessened bulk and weight; the modifications with special reference to the comfort of the wearer; the distinction in shape in accordance with anatomical types; adaptability to varying conformations of maxillæ; the recognition of the artistic demands in replacement—the distinctive needs of differing sex, age, complexion, nationality, and general physical peculiarities; the faithful reproduction of the manifold deviations from absolute uniformity, including the minor as well as the more noticeable features, effects to disarm suspicion of artificiality, and forms to overcome the results of irregular or excessive absorption without violating æsthetic requirements; improvements also in the mechanics of substitution,—the means of attachment to the various bases—the bell-shaped, the double-headed, and the foot-shaped pins, and modifications of form specially applicable to the different materials used as bases.

“When the improvements above enumerated, and many others not specified, are considered, it must be conceded that the advances in dentistry as a prosthetic art from 1844 to the present time have been due in very great part to the steady approximation to perfection in all the essential characteristics of artificial teeth which the manufactures of Dr. White have so constantly maintained.

“In February, 1847, the first marked recognition of his efforts was received,—a testimonial signed by many of the leading dentists throughout the country. This was followed, in 1848, by a gold medal, awarded by the American Institute of New York, and the first premium by the Maryland Institute of Baltimore. In 1849 a premium of a gold medal for the greatest improvement in the manufacture of porcelain teeth, offered by the Pennsylvania Society of Dental Surgeons, was awarded to him. From that time to the present no year has passed without testimony to the superiority of his manufactures in one respect or another, until medals and diplomas—aggregating now nearly fourscore—from all the principal industrial institutes of the country and from all the great international exhibitions, confirmed the position which he early attained as the leading manufacturer of artificial teeth in the world.

“Not alone, however, in the special department of porcelain teeth did his manufactures hold unquestioned preëminence. In its early days the practice of dentistry was more a secret art than a broad science. At the time Dr. White began to supply the wants of the profession, dentists had only just begun to make public the results of their experiments and investigations. There were no manufactories of instruments for their special uses. Such as were made for sale were supplied by the surgical-instrument makers, and included only the simplest appliances; for the most part individual dentists made their own tools. As a consequence, those which had been found useful by any one practitioner were confined chiefly to his own office or laboratory; but, as their advantages became known, the desirability of placing them within the reach of others made the establishment of a manufactory of instruments specially adapted to the needs of the dentist a necessity. With characteristic sagacity Dr. White met this want, and this branch of the business extended, until the reputation of the dental instruments bearing his trade-mark became as wide-spread as that of his porcelain teeth. It is a remarkable fact, and the strongest evidence of their superiority, that they hold as high a place in the esteem of the dental profession of Europe as in that of American dentists.

“In appointments and appliances for the office and laboratory the various and steadily-growing needs of dental practice were constantly met,—and in an art so largely manipulative as dentistry the facilities and implements with which it is furnished have much to do with its success. In the rapidly succeeding improvements in dental engines and chairs, his unflagging zeal was shown by a series of triumphs which overcame all obstacles and produced results which commanded the admiration of all who appreciated their wonderful adaptation to the purposes which they were meant to serve. It seemed to be his mission more than that of any other man to lead and educate the profession to an appreciation and employment of time- and health-saving instrumentalities. He not only stood ready to meet its every demand, but seized upon and fostered every suggestion, resting only when the ideal became the actual. His ambition for progress and improvement led him to stimulate dental inventors, until the genius that conceived the thought rejoiced in its fruition. Thus it may be truly said that to a large extent he created the market which he supplied.

“In the field of dental literature, the publication of the Dental News Letter for twelve years, commencing in 1847, and following it, of the Dental Cosmos, now in its twenty-second volume, has had no small share in the growth of the profession in usefulness, self-respect, and public regard.

“It will scarcely be disputed by anyone familiar with the history of dentistry for the past forty years that in many directions no one man has exercised a wider or greater or more lasting influence upon its development, not alone in this country, but throughout the world, than Samuel S. White.

“He took an active interest in all that concerned the dental profession; identified himself with it and gave to its advancement the best efforts of his life. Though already overburdened with business cares, he accepted the leadership of an opposition to exactions by the Goodyear Dental Vulcanite Company, which he conscientiously believed were founded on an indefensible patent. His services and sacrifices in the position which was thus almost thrust upon him should be long and gratefully remembered by the profession in whose interest he acted,—as, whether right or wrong, successful or otherwise, he was honest and earnest in his efforts in the legal contest of their claims, involving himself in personal suits for slander and ‘maintenance’ with damages laid at $175,000.

“This brief memoir would be incomplete without a mention of his readiness to lend a helping hand to inventions and enterprises outside of his own business. He early became interested in the Harmonic Telegraph, and assisted Elisha Gray, its inventor, with the means necessary for its development. He never wavered for a moment in his faith in its ultimate success, or hesitated to furnish the required means promptly as called for. He was also a large stockholder in the American Speaking Telephone Company,—an outgrowth of the Harmonic Telegraph,—and gave much time and thought to prevent litigation about rival claims, and was largely instrumental in the adjustment and consolidation of opposing interests.

“He was a patriotic and public-spirited man,—the first in America to respond to the call of the Government for a loan in its early struggles with the rebellion. He was a humanitarian and a liberal helper in philanthropic efforts, disbursing continuously for many years with an unstinting hand in aid of charitable objects. He was a worker in the great Sanitary Fair, and one of those who subscribed five thousand dollars each towards the Centennial Exhibition. He was a member of the Union League, of the Reform Club, the Franklin Institute, the Academy of Natural Sciences, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the United States Board of Trade, and many other business and benevolent associations.

“As a man he was modest and unassuming, charitable and respectful to others, yet never forgetful of self-respect; courteous, cordial and simple in his manners, uniting dignity and urbanity. Few men are to be found more free from faults, and none of greater probity or purer designs and aspirations; calm in danger, cool under difficulties, wise in council, a kind husband, an indulgent father, thoughtful and considerate as an employer, a steadfast friend, a diligent worker, a man whose word was as good as his bond.

“He believed that religion was a life, not a ceremony,—a love of good and a hatred of evil. All his actions were regulated and subordinated by this conviction. Industry, honesty, truthfulness, integrity, justice, forbearance, forgiveness, benevolence, and love characterized his life. Service was to him easy, sacrifice a pleasure, and duty a delight. He was a manly man, possessed of ‘the manliness of love, the manliness of truth, the manliness that wears the spirit on the brow, the manliness that bears the heart in open palm,—no plan or purpose that he feared to show.’ His motives were pure, his ambitions noble, his mind devoted to truth, his conscience pledged to the right.

“We shall miss his kindly greeting, his ready hand, his sympathizing tear, his generous heart, his upright walk, his noble example worthy of imitation; but his influence, though unseen, will be felt and transmitted to generations which knew him not; and although passing away at a comparatively early age, yet, reckoned by the work he has done instead of by the years he has counted, he may be said to have attained the fullness of life.”

NEWBY FAMILY.

I. JOHN NEWBY was a member of the Society of Friends, and doubtless related to the family of Newby residing at Kendal, in the County of Westmoreland, England, who were among the early converts to Quakerism, and had suffered greatly for their religious belief.* There is, however, nothing to show that he ever came to North Carolina, though his children and widow resided in Pasquotank Precinct (now county) in that province, she being then the wife of Matthew Calley, a Friend, who in his will, which was dated April 16, 1699, bequeathed to his step-daughter, Rebecca Newby, a plantation containing 100 acres on Symons Creek, which after the decease of her second husband, Robert White, she conveyed to her grandson, John Overman.† In 1696 her sister, Elizabeth Newby, is in her marriage certificate styled “daughter of John Newby and daughter-in-law of Matthew Calley.”‡

ROSE FAMILY.

THE first person of the name of Rose in this country of whom the compiler has knowledge was Robert Rose, a native of Ipswich, County Suffolk, England, who arrived in New England in 1634, accompanied by his wife and eight children, and settled at Wethersfield, Conn., in 1639. One of these children, Samuel, born in 1625, removed to Newark, in East Jersey, where he died, in 1698, without issue. The Roses do not at any time appear to have been members of the Society of Friends, and it is likely that all of the name in New Jersey were descended from Robert, of Wethersfield.* In the early part of the eighteenth century there were two of the name in Burlington County, West Jersey,—a Peter Rose, who resided at Burlington, and was married to Mary, daughter of John Hummel, by his wife, Gertrude, daughter of John Austin,† and an Ephraim Rose, of whom hereafter.

I. EPHRAIM ROSE, of Little Egg Harbor Township, Burlington County, N. J., yeoman, died some time prior to March 8, 1747, when letters of administration on his estate were granted to his widow, Martha.‡

The plantation was really much larger, as in July, 1797, when it was re-surveyed for his sons, Samuel and William, it consisted of 242 acres, of which one hundred and nineteen were overplus.† He died some time prior to June 18, 1762, when letters of administration on his estate were granted to his widow, Anne.‡

III. WILLIAM ROSE, of Little Egg Harbor Township, Burlington County, N. J., yeoman, (son of Samuel and Anne,) was born about the year 1750. When his father's plantation was re-surveyed, July 18, 1797, his elder brother received that portion which included the homestead, and he obtained for his share the remaining half, ¶ on which he had built his dwelling-house, where he resided until his decease, in 1804. ## CHAPTER IV.

CRANMER FAMILY.

THE CRANMER family of New Jersey claim descent from the celebrated Thomas Cranmer, Archbishop of Canterbury, who was burned at the stake May 21, 1556. There is no evidence, however, to support this claim, as the male line of the Archbishop became extinct. If descended from this family, it could only have been through his brother, Edward, Archdeacon of Canterbury, who died in 1604, aged 69 years, leaving issue a son, Thomas Cranmer, who had five sons. The first three generations of the family in New Jersey generally appear to have written their name Cramer or Crammer, though in 1707* William, the son of the founder of the family, signed himself Cranmer. The first of the family, however, to adopt the latter form exclusively was Seymour Cranmer, but for convenience the compiler has used that form of spelling the name in each generation.

I. WILLIAM CRANMER (Cramer or Crammer) settled originally at Southold, Long Island, from whence he removed to Elizabethtown, Essex County, East New Jersey, his name appearing among those who took the oath of allegiance, February 19, 1665. He was appointed constable of the town, April 27, 1670; was one of the freeholders, and possessed considerable property, most of which he sold in September, 1677, when he removed to the Hoar Kill (Lewes), Delaware.† His sons remained at Elizabeth, and he died some time prior to December 4, 1689, when letters of administration on his estate at Elizabeth were granted to his eldest son, Thomas, who, December 11, 1691, disposed of one-half of his farm and orchard in that town, his brothers, William and John Cranmer, agreeing not to molest the purchaser in his possession of the property.*

William Cranmer married, at Southold, Long Island, previous to his removal to New Jersey, Elizabeth, daughter of David Carwithy, who died at that place in November, 1665.†

- ii. WILLIAM, removed to Barnegat, where he became the first proselyte made by Edward Andrews, a prominent minister of the Little Egg Harbor Monthly Meeting. He afterwards removed to Little Egg Harbor Township, where he took up considerable quantities of land.
- iii. JOHN, of whom hereafter.

II. JOHN CRANMER (son of William and Elizabeth) removed with his brother William to the lower part of Burlington County, where he was converted to the doctrine of the Society of Friends, but in 1707 returned to Elizabeth, which was within the verge of the Woodbridge Monthly Meeting, as appears by the certificate which he and his wife brought with them from the Monthly Meeting at Little Egg Harbor.‡ He did not, however, remain long at Elizabeth, as in October, 1709, he purchased of Thomas Brian, of Chesterfield, a "Two & Thirtieth p't of a Propriety of Land in y<sup>e</sup> Province of West New Jersey,"§ and shortly afterwards took up land in Bass River Township, Burlington County, West New Jersey.

John Cranmer married Sarah ———, by whom he had issue a son, Jeremiah, born at Elizabeth, 12th mo. (February) 4, 1707, || and probably other children besides his eldest son, John, of whom hereafter.

III. JOHN CRANMER, of Bass River Township, Burlington County, N. J., yeoman, (son of John and Sarah,) born about 1695–98, was a member of the Society of Friends, and died some time prior to April 14, 1760, when letters of administration were granted on his estate.¶

Seymour Cranmer married, in June, 1757, Mary, daughter of John and Mary Smith.§ See that family, Chapter VI. She died in 1807. ### STOUT FAMILY.

THERE is no doubt that the sisters, Rebecca Stout, wife of John Cranmer (see that family, Chapter IV, p. 21), and Penelope Stout, wife of Jacob Henry Falkenburg,* members of the Little Egg Harbor Monthly Meeting, were descendants, probably great-grandchildren, of Richard and Penelope Stout, of Middletown, N. J., as on the latter's decease, in 1712, aged 110 years, she is said to have had five hundred and two descendants.† A manuscript genealogy was compiled by a Mr. Stout, and is said to have been at one time in the possession of the father of Ex-Governor Parker, but that gentleman was not able to give the compiler any information on the subject.

Partial copies of the Stout MS. are in the possession of the Rev. G. C. Schenk, of Marlborough, N. J., and Dr. J. E. Stillwell, of New York City, but they do not give the names of Rebecca and Penelope Stout's parents, though Mr. Schenk writes the compiler that Richard, second son of Richard and Penelope Stout, settled at Squan Beach, where he raised a large family, and is likely to have been the father or grandfather of Rebecca and Penelope, who lived in that neighborhood.

I. RICHARD STOUT was the son of John Stout, a gentleman of good position in Nottinghamshire. He had a disagreement with his father, which caused him to leave England. Embarking on a man-of-war, he served seven years, being honorably discharged at New York,‡ where he remained until April 8, 1665, when he became one of the original incorporators of Middletown, East

New Jersey. He continued to reside at Middletown, being one of the largest landed proprietors, until his decease, at an advanced age, in 1705. In his will, which was dated June 9, 1703, and proved October 23, 1705, he mentions his children as hereafter given.*

Richard Stout married, at New York, a widow whose maiden name was Penelope van Princess. She was born at Amsterdam, Holland, in 1602; died at Middletown, East Jersey, in 1712, aged 110 years, and is said to have been buried in the old graveyard near Holmdel, N. J., situate about one hundred yards from the residence of the late John S. Henderson, Esq.† The vessel in which Mrs. Stout and her first husband came over was stranded at Sandy Hook. The passengers, however, succeeded in landing, when her husband was overcome by illness, which prevented them from pushing on to New York with the rest of the party, who were afraid of being attacked by Indians. They were thus left alone, and shortly afterwards surprised by a company of Indians, who killed her husband, and left her for dead. She regained consciousness, and after concealing herself in a hollow log, subsisted for several days in part on the excrescences that grew from it, until discovered by an old Indian, to whose kindness and crude knowledge of surgery she was indebted for the recovery of her health and restoration to her friends in New Amsterdam. STOCKTON.

CHAPTER VII.

IN his History of the Stockton Family, Mr. J. W. Stockton states that Richard Stockton, the founder of the Stockton family of New Jersey, was the son of John Stockton, of Keddington, in the Parish of Malpas, County Chester, England, eldest son of Owen, of the same place, and that he was baptized in the parish church June 20, 1606. His reasons for supposing such to be the case were that the Hon. Richard Stockton, one of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence, states in his Bible that "Richard Stockton emigrated from England previous to "the year 1660, and resided for a few years on Long Island, "near the City of New York, and belonged to an ancient and "highly respectable family, and possessed an opulent fortune," and that the same gentleman used the arms of the Cheshire Stocktons, which were engraved on his watch.

Mr. Stockton has kindly allowed the compiler of this account of a branch of the family to have access to his notes used in the preparation of the genealogy, but after a careful examination of those papers and a thorough and exhaustive search of the records at Flushing and Jamaica, Long Island, and at Albany, the compiler failed to find satisfactory authority for Mr. Stockton's statement.

Richard Stockton died in 1707. His eldest son, Richard, was married in 1691, and died in 1709, when his children were all under age. His second son, John, was born in 1674; his youngest daughter, Elizabeth, was not born until the year 1680. His widow, Abigail, who is by the will of his eldest son proved to have been the mother of all his children, was living in 1714, when she divided some land between her sons, John and Job.

The compiler has arrived at the conclusion that Richard Stockton, of Flushing, and Springfield Township, New Jersey, was not identical with the Richard Stockton, son of John and grandson of Owen, who is mentioned by Mr. J. W. Stockton, a conclusion led to by investigations which he made in England during his visits to that country. The Richard Stockton (son of John) previously referred to as being baptized in 1606 was not the son of John Stockton, of Keddington, it being clearly proved, by two separate visitations of the county, that in 1613 his "eldest sonne et heire" was Thomas, then aged 4 years. It appears, however, by the registers of the parish that a John Stockton of "higherwich in ye psh of Malpas" had a son Richard, baptized June 20, 1606, but the compiler cannot identify him with the immigrant.

The Stocktons of Cheshire were undoubtedly a very ancient family, and are proved to have been established in the Parish of Malpas, where they were at one time lords of the manor, for at least 400 years prior to the seventeenth century, when the most important branch of the family still owned lands at Stockton and Keddington, in that parish, other branches being settled in the parishes of Acton and Barrow. The compiler has made what he believes to have been a very thorough investigation of all the sources of information in London, including the wills, etc., of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, besides examining the parish registers, local wills, and records of marriage licenses in Cheshire, and finally, as a last resource, advertising in the newspapers for the record of marriage of Richard and Abigail Stockton, but unfortunately without success, as the marriage probably took place some time between the years 1640 and 1656, during the troublesome times of the Civil War, when the parish registers and records of marriage licenses were very much neglected.

The names of Richard and John were great favorites with the Cheshire Stocktons long before Richard Stockton immigrated to this country and perpetuated them among his distinguished descendants. Considering this, and the fact that the arms of the Stocktons of Keddington were used by their American cousins at an early stage of their history, the compiler is able to say that he fully agrees with Mr. J. W. Stockton in claiming a connection between the English and American families. He even feels justified in assuming that Richard Stockton, of Flushing, etc., was descended from John Stockton, Esquire, of Keddington (eldest son of Thomas, of the same place), who about the year 1550 married Eleanor, daughter of Vivian, grand-daughter of Owen, and sister and heiress of Daniel Clayton, of Chorleton. They had issue several daughters and five sons, viz., Owen, Thomas, Randall, William, and John. Their third son, Randall, became a merchant, and removed to London, where he died some time prior to 1657, having married his cousin, Elizabeth Clayton, of that city, who survived him, and by whom he had issue Richard, of whom hereafter, Francis, and Cecilia. Richard proved his mother's will, of which he was executor, February 16, 1658, but died a few days afterwards, when his widow, Dorothy, continued the executorship. The compiler has never been able to trace the descendants of this gentleman, which is a source of great regret to him, as the evidence, though only circumstantial, seems to point to the conclusion that he was the father of Richard Stockton, of Flushing, Long Island, and afterwards of Springfield Township, Burlington County, New Jersey.

[The pedigree on the two succeeding pages will serve to illustrate the compiler's remarks about the English Stocktons, and is inserted with the hope that it may prove of interest to the American family.]

I. RICHARD STOCKTON, of Flushing, Long Island, Esquire, and afterwards of Oneanickon, Springfield Township, Burlington County, West Jersey (who is presumed to have been a descendant of John Stockton, Esquire, of Keddington, in the Parish of Malpas and County of Chester, who about the year 1550 married Eleanor Clayton), arrived at Flushing, from England, some time prior to November 8, 1656, when his name appears in a petition of some of the inhabitants of that town requesting the release of William Wickendom, who had been fined and imprisoned for preaching without a license. In 1685 he was one of the freeholders of Flushing, as appears by a deed of that date* confirming the old Dutch patent of 1645.†

In 1675 his estate at Flushing consisted of 12 acres of land, one negro slave, five horses, five cows, and five swine, and in

STOCKTON OF KEDDINGTON.

Thomas Stockton, of the parish of Malpas, County Chester, was no doubt descended from the same family as David de Stockton, who, in the year 1250, inherited the Manor of Stockton in that parish from his father, and whose direct line terminated in an heir female who m. Robert de Eaton, ancestor of the present Duke of Westminster. William Stockton, of Ipswich, a descendant of Thomas, used the same arms as this David de Stockton.

Richard Stockton proved his mother's will February 15, 1658, but died a few days later, when his widow, Dorothy, administered both estates. Though no traces can be found of his descendants, it seems highly probable that he was the father of Richard,
 the immigrant.

(December) 15, 1690, Richard Stockton's proposal for all his housing, lands and conveniences belonging thereunto, being about 70 acres or more at home and 2 ten acre lotts and 2 twenty acre lotts at a mile or two distance, with so much medow as may yield 20 or 25 loads of hay a year, price £300." This proposal is entered in an account-book kept by John Bowne, of Flushing, who acted as his agent in this matter.† Mr. Stockton must have been in easy circumstances at that time, as on the 30th of the next month, January, 1690, O. S., he purchased of George Hutchinson his house and plantation called Oneanickon, which consisted of about 2000 acres,‡ though he did not succeed in disposing of his property at Flushing until March 12, 1694, when, "in consideration of three hundred pounds good and lawful money of the Province of New York, Richard Stockton, formerly of Flushing, with the consent of his wife Abigail," conveys to John Rodman "his messuages or tenaments Situate lying and being by coast on the Bay commonly called Mattagareson bay, within the bounds of Flushing, being about eighty acres of land more or less, wth all y<sup>e</sup> Privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging, as also a piece of Salt medow commonly called y<sup>e</sup> Lumkill, which was belonging to Richard Stockton by virtue of his interest in the s'd towne of Flushing."§ April 22, 1665, he was commissioned, by Governor Nicolls, lieutenant of the Horse Company of Flushing, and in 1669 elected lieutenant of the Foot Company of the same place, which office the Governor allowed him to decline, as he had previously been engaged in the horse service.|| This shows that he was not originally a member of the Society of Friends, as military employment was directly

Richard Stockton died at an advanced age, at his house at Oneanickon, in September, 1707, his will being dated January 25, 1705-6, and proved 8th mo. (October) 10, 1707. See Appendix IX. He divided his property equally between his three sons, Richard, John, and Job; bequeathing his house to his son Job, who was to have possession on the decease of his mother. He also directed that after her death his personal property should be divided among their five daughters. He also possessed a two-and-thirtieth part of a propriety of land in West Jersey, which was conveyed to him in December, 1713, by his father-in-law, Daniel Leeds, Esq., as part of his wife's dowry.‡ He died March 29, 1747, æt. 73 years, and in his will, which was dated August 31, 1745, and proved April 4, 1747,§ directs that his proprietary rights and his plantation be equally divided between his sons, Daniel and David, who were to pay certain legacies to their sisters. ### LEEDS FAMILY.

I. THOMAS LEEDS, born in England about 1620, arrived in New Jersey, with his three sons, about the year 1677, and settled at Shrewsbury, in East Jersey. He was probably a cooper, as his son Daniel, who at one time followed that calling, mentioned in one of his Almanacs that, though his father was a poor mechanic, he was nevertheless descended from a gentleman of Kent, whose arms he describes as follows, viz: "A fess between three eagles displayed, two in chief and one in point." These are engraved on an old silver seal at present in the possession of Daniel Leeds, Esq., of Philadelphia, son of the late Daniel Leeds, Esq., of Westfield, Burlington County, N. J. Mr. Leeds was doubtless, like his sons, Thomas and Daniel, a member of the Society of Friends. He died intestate, in 1687, as, December 2 of that year, letters of administration on his estate were granted to his son, William Leeds, of Middletown, planter, who, July 15, 1688, conveyed 112 acres of land in Monmouth County to his brother, Daniel Leeds, of Burlington County.*

the year of his first marriage, when he was styled "late of Shrewsbury, in East Jersey, cooper." He did not, however, follow that calling long, as in 1681 he was appointed Surveyor-General of the Province of West New Jersey, which position he held until the close of the year 1710. His book of surveys covering that period is still in a good state of preservation, is known by his name, and can be found at the office of the present surveyor-general, where also is the original of the accompanying Map of Burlington, which was made by Daniel Leeds in 1696, and is the oldest map of that city now extant. This was one of the most responsible and difficult positions in the province, and his having remained the incumbent for a period of twenty-nine years clearly proves him to have had a good knowledge of his profession. It is evident that he had the advantage of a somewhat better education than most of his contemporaries.

Mr. Leeds was also a compiler of Almanacs, which were issued as early as 1682, as appears by an entry in the minutes of the Burlington Monthly Meeting, for which see Appendix XIV. He continued to publish them for many years, and was succeeded by his son Titian.*

In 1682 he served as one of the members of the Assembly, but does not appear to have been reelected. In 1703, on the arrival of the new Governor, Viscount Cornbury, he became one of the most active partisans of that nobleman, serving during the entire term of his administration as one of his Council, until finally unseated, on the petition of Messrs. Forster, Townley, Hoddy, Hall, Harrison, and Hamilton, addressed to the Lords of Trade, who, May 31st, requested Her Majesty Queen Ann to remove Mr. Leeds and Mr. Thomas Revell, which request was granted at a meeting of the Queen in Council, June 26, 1708.

The petitioners alleged that he was one of the persons made use of by Lord Cornbury to keep out unjustly three members of the Assembly, one of whom was Thomas Gardiner, Esq., until they had procured several acts to pass which were very prejudicial to the country. † June 7, 1708, he was commissioned fourth

Mr. Leeds was originally a member of the Society of Friends, but at the time of the Keith controversy became a follower of that party, and with many others went over to the Church of England. In his will, which was dated June 27, and proved October, 1720, he describes himself as "holding fast his confidence in y<sup>e</sup> faith and Doctrine of y<sup>e</sup> Church of England, believing it in y<sup>e</sup> Respect to be one of y<sup>e</sup> best Churches in y<sup>e</sup> world." He directed that his estate, which was quite large (the personal property being valued at over £600), should be divided equally among his children then living, and bequeathed legacies to his grandchildren, Daniel and Rebecca Stockton. ### FISHER FAMILY.

I. JOHN FISHER, of Burlington, West New Jersey, Esquire, was an active member of Lord Cornbury's party, and during his administration High Sheriff of Burlington County. Mr. Fisher died in 1715, his will being dated April 9, and proved May 1, of that year. He left legacies to his cousin, John Fisher, and St. Mary's Church, Burlington, and the rest of his estate to his children, Edward Fisher, David Fisher, and Ann, wife of John Hancock.*

Hannah Fisher, who was born in 1710, and married Daniel Stockton (see that family, Chapter VII, p. 35), was a daughter of one of John Fisher's sons, or of his cousin John, but of which the compiler has been unable to determine, as at that time the registers of St. Mary's were very much neglected, and contain no record of her birth.

CHAPTER X.

THE family of Gardiner was established in the South of England, at the town of Warminster, in the County of Wilts, in the early part of the sixteenth century, and had probably resided there for generations prior to that, as the parish registers, which date from the year 1556, contain, even at that time, frequent mention of the family. The earliest mention of the name is the record of burial, August 10, 1557, of "Alis Gardiner," who apparently belonged to a generation preceding that of Richard Gardiner, with whom this pedigree begins.*

The name appears in the registers of the parish in various ways, Gardiner, Gardner, Gardnor, etc., but as the family, with the exception of the first Thomas of Burlington, and his father Thomas of Warminster, always spelt it Gardiner, the compiler has thought it best to adhere to that form throughout.

I. RICHARD GARDINER, of Warminster, County Wilts, was twice married. His second wife, Elizabeth Burdges, whom he married January 20, 1579, was buried October 28, 1632, having survived him.†

See Appendix XVI. Thomas Gardiner, 2d, was buried July 22, 1676.§

IV. THOMAS GARDINER, 3d, of Warminster, County Wilts, afterwards of Burlington, in the Province of West New Jersey, (son of Thomas, 2d, and Jane,) was born at Warminster, in 1633, and during his father's life was known as "The Younger." ¶ March 11, 1678, while residing at Warminster, he, together with Thomas Gerrish, of Bromham, County Wilts, purchased of Anthony Elton, of Yatesbury, in the same county, two-fourths of two full equal and undivided eighth parts of one full equal and undivided ninetieth part of ninety one-hundredths parts or shares of the Province of West New Jersey.* Shortly after this, owing to the persecution to which the English Friends were subjected, and the fact that his daughter Hester had married John, son of Dr. Daniel Wills, one of the Proprietors of West Jersey, who was then living in Burlington County, Mr. Gardiner, with his whole family, immigrated to the town of Burlington. On his arrival he signed the "Concessions and Agreements of the Proprietors, Freeholders, and Inhabitants of the Province of West New Jersey in America." This document was dated March 3, 1676, and subscribed by 153 persons, some of whom had signed in London on that date, and others in Burlington as they arrived in the province.†

He brought with him considerable estate, and immediately commenced the building of his dwelling-house, which, though made of logs, was of larger dimensions than any other among his neighbors, and was finished with more care and expense. In it, on the 28th day of the 6th mo. (August) 1681, was held the first yearly meeting of Friends in New Jersey. Before it was finished the Friends in Burlington held their meetings in a tent made of the sails taken from the vessels in which they crossed the ocean, but after that time the meetings generally assembled at his house until the completion of the "great Meeting-House." His subscription of £4 towards the building of it was the largest amount received.‡ "It was from y<sup>e</sup> house of Thomas Gardiner that y<sup>e</sup> horn was blown which convened y<sup>e</sup> Town Meetings," and he was doubtless one of the principal officers of the town. In 1680 his name appears in the Burlington court records as a freeholder and constable, but it is impossible to enumerate the offices which he held in other years, as the Town Book dates only from the year of his decease. His house, which was the most important in the early history of Burlington, was the second above Pearl, on the west

The property on each side changed hands shortly afterwards, as in Leeds's Map of Burlington, made in 1696 (for which see p. 39), his house and lot, then in the possession of his son, is located between the lands of T. Rodgers and Richard Lane.

Mr. Gardiner, after his arrival in Burlington, appears † to have devoted himself principally to the cultivation of his estate and his public duties, having been, in 1681, elected a member of the Assembly and one of the Governor's Council, and annually reelected to those offices until his death. In 1682 he was appointed one of the judges of the courts of Burlington County, serving in that capacity for several years, and in 1683 one of the commissioners for dividing and regulating land, and one of the treasurers of the province. Some of these appointments were continued through several years, until Mr. Gardiner refused to serve.‡ His death is thus recorded in Smith's History of New Jersey: "In September, 1694, died Thomas Gardiner; "he arrived early at Burlington, went through several publick "stations in West Jersey with a good character, had consider- "able knowledge in a variety of business, and was an exemplary "member of society, civil and religious."

He did not, however, die until November or December of that year, as his will was dated November 24, and proved December 15, 1694. At that time he was building a brick house, which he bequeathed to his daughter Elizabeth. See Appendix XVII.

V. THOMAS GARDINER, 4th, of Burlington, N. J., Esquire, (eldest son of Thomas, 3d, and Elizabeth,) was baptized at Warminster, County Wilts, July 7, 1658, and at the age of twenty accompanied his father to West Jersey, succeeding him as one of the Proprietors of the province.

In 1686, shortly after his marriage, he removed to Newton Township, in Gloucester County, and settled on part of his father-in-law's estate, called "Groverline" or "Groverly," where he remained until 1697,* when he returned to Burlington, and resided on his property in that town which he had inherited from his father. While living at the former place he was one of the trustees of the Friends' Meeting and a judge of the courts of Gloucester County, then held at Red Bank.† After his return to Burlington he was, in April, 1698, elected Recorder of the town, holding that office until 1702, when he was elected Burgess, which office he was, however, obliged to resign the next year,‡ on account of his duties as a member and Speaker of the first Provisional Assembly of New Jersey.

In 1703 the Provinces of East and West Jersey were united under one government, administered by Lord Cornbury, who convened the General Assembly to meet at Perth Amboy, when Thomas Gardiner was chosen Speaker. Mr. Gardiner was favorably received by his lordship, whom he addressed on the subject of the privileges claimed by the Assembly. In reply to this the Governor made a speech to the Council and General Assembly, to which the Speaker replied as follows: "I am commanded by

"this House to return your Excellency our hearty thanks for "your Excellency's many kind expressions to them, contained
"in your Excellency's speech, and it is to our great satisfaction
"that Her Majesty has been pleased to constitute your Excellency
"our Governor. We are well assured that the Proprietors, by
"the surrender of their rights to the government of this Prov-

"under their administration; they not being able to protect us "from the villainies of wicked men; and having an entire depend-

"joyment of our rights, liberties, and properties, do think our
"stars have been very propitious in placing us under the gov-

"of laws; and we do entreat your Excellency to believe that our "best endeavors shall not be wanting to accomplish those things
"which shall be for the satisfaction of the Queen, the general
"good of the country, and, if possible, the universal satisfaction

"shall join our utmost endeavours to unite our unhappy differ-

"work. We shall follow the directions given in your Excel"lency's speech with what dispatch the nature of things require,
"and hope that all our consultations may conduce to the best
"and greatest ends."* Mr. Gardiner's subsequent contentions with the Governor and his party are best described in the words of one of his descendants, the late John Stockton Littell, Esq., of Elton House, Germantown: "Matters in the Council pro"gressed smoothly for a while, and the conduct of the Governor
"justified the compliment contained in the Speaker's address.
"But his disposition could not long be concealed from those with "whom he was immediately connected in the government. The “character of Lord Cornbury, a near relation of the Queen, is “well known to the readers of our early history to have been “vicious in the extreme. There was, moreover, no bounds to “his extravagance. Soon after he took possession of the gov“ernment he became unsupportably tyrannical and arbitrary.

 “Parties existed even at that early period, and the Governor had “his adherents. It is, however, a source of satisfaction to the “writer that the Speaker was not of that number; but that he “was possessed of courage, energy, and ability sufficient to op“pose and check the encroachments of Lord Cornbury upon the “privileges of the Assembly and country; and as an inevitable “consequence we find him obnoxious to his high displeasure.
 “Thwarted in some of his lawless measures by the position and “influence of the Speaker, and as the only method of gaining “the object he desired, he abruptly dismissed the Assembly, and “issued the writs for a new election. He dismissed the Assem“bly ‘with many more encomiums than many of them received “on their return to their homes.’ The character and ability of “Mr. Gardiner secured his reëlection, notwithstanding the op“position of the Governor and his adherents; but the majority “of the delegates were of a different stamp, and tamely suffered
 “the intrigues and arbitrary practices of Cornbury to deprive “them of the services of three of their most influential mem“bers, Thomas Gardiner, Thomas Lambert, and Joseph Wright, “under the pretense of not owning land enough to qualify them
 “to sit there, though they were known to be men of large and “sufficient estates, and the same Assembly at their next meeting
 “at Amboy, in 1705, themselves declared that ‘the members had “heretofore fully satisfied the House of their being duly qualified
 “to sit in the same,’ and they were then admitted to their seats—
 “the purposes of their exclusion having been answered. This “sitting was in October and November. These purposes were
 “the ejection of Gardiner from the Speakership, and the election
 “of a more pliant instrument in the hands of the Governor.”

He was one of the members of the Council of Proprietors for the years 1706, 1707, 1708, and 1709, in which year the Council and Assembly procured the recall of Lord Cornbury and the appointment of Lord Lovelace in his place.*

* Smith's History of New Jersey.

Mr. Gardiner's death is thus recorded in the minutes of the Council of Proprietors: "1712. This year died Thomas Gardiner, of Burlington; many times mentioned before. He was well acquainted with public business, a good surveyor, and useful member of society; several years one of the Council, treasurer of the Western Division, and the first Speaker of the Assembly after the union of East and West Jersey." He had served as Surveyor-General of the Western Division,* which was at that time a position of great trust and responsibility, that officer being required to review all the maps and locations of land made by the several deputy surveyors, and to examine the calculations as to quantity of acres named, to test the several bearings as marked upon the maps, and to certify to the Council that they were correct in every particular.

He died intestate some time prior to September 15, 1712, when letters of administration on his estate were granted to Robert Wheeler and Joshua de Cow, Esquires. On the 25th of that month Isaac Pearson, son-in-law of the late Thomas Gardiner, Esq., was ordered to make an inventory of the goods and chattels. †

Thomas Gardiner married, first, at Burlington, 4th mo. (June) 25, 1684, Hannah, only daughter and heiress of Thomas Mathews. ‡ See that family, Chapter XI. She died in 1700. Having conveyed certain property to Samuel Jennings and Joshua Humphries in trust for his sons, Thomas and Mathews Gardiner, he married, secondly, at Burlington, 8th mo. (October) 14, 1701, Elizabeth, sister to Philip Richards, of New York, merchant, by whom he had no issue. She died some time prior to 1712, when William Basnett, her son by a former marriage, conveyed to his step-father, Thomas Gardiner, the "brick house in Burlington," which afterwards descended to Mathews Gardiner.

The second Mrs. Gardiner had married, first, William Frampton, of Oyster Bay, Long Island, by whom she had issue Thomas, Elizabeth, and Sarah Frampton. He died at Philadelphia, in November, 1686, when she married, secondly, in December, 1688, Richard Basnett, of Burlington, but formerly of London, a widower, and father-in-law of the Deputy Governor, Edward

I. NICHOLAS MATHEWS (or Mathewes), of Reading, in the County of Berks, England, died prior to the year 1624, leaving issue a son, Richard, of whom hereafter.*

II. RICHARD MATHEWS, cloth merchant and citizen of London, afterwards of Stoke Newington, in the County of Middlesex,† (son of Nicholas,) was born in 1610, and, December 6, 1624, apprenticed to John Webster, of the Clothworkers' Company, obtaining the freedom of that ancient corporation in 1631, after serving his apprenticeship of seven years.‡ He was one of the Proprietors of the Province of West New Jersey, his name being the eighth in the list of 153 persons who signed the "Concessions and Agreements."§ His signature was attached to that document in London, as he did not immigrate, but sent his son to look after his interests, which were very extensive, he having in March, 1676, purchased "one full equal and undivided ninetieth "p't of y't undivided tract of land called West New Jersey, in "America," and in August, 1678, one-sixth of a like share of the province. He sold a part of this land to John Haddon, of Rotherithe, in Surrey, from whose family the village of Haddonfield, in New Jersey, takes its name. The conveyance was dated June 20, 1699, and in it he is styled "Richard Mathews, formerly of London, Blackwell Hall, factor, and now of Stoke Newington, in y<sup>e</sup> County of Middlesex and Kingdom of England."||

In 1683 a survey of 500 acres was returned in his name as made in Newton Township, Gloucester County, upon which now stands the larger part of the village of Haddonfield.* June 15th, when described as "Citizen of London, in the Kingdom of England, merchant," he, through his attorney, disposed of 100 acres of this tract; the remainder being afterwards bought by John Haddon, in whose family it remained for many years.†

Richard Mathews died in England about the year 1702, having had issue a son, Thomas, of whom hereafter.

III. THOMAS MATHEWS, of the Parish of St. Sepulchre, City of London, carpenter, and afterwards of Groverline, Newton Township, Gloucester County, in the Province of West New Jersey, (son of Richard,) arrived in the province about the year 1678, accompanied by his second wife and his only child, Hannah, the daughter by his first marriage. His father had either conveyed to him a portion of his proprietary rights or made him his proxy, as in 1688 he is mentioned as one of the Proprietors of West Jersey.‡ In 1684 Edward Byllinge, with the consent of George Hutchinson, appointed him his attorney for the sale of thirty shares of propriety of West Jersey, and in 1685,§ in which year he was returned as one of the members of the Assembly, he represented Messrs. Benj. Bartlett, Robert Squib, and Robert Squib, Jr., as their proxy in voting for members of the Council of Proprietors, and their agent in disposing of their land in the province.

Mr. Mathews settled first in Burlington, and in 1688 made a proposition to the Legislature to exchange 1000 acres for a site to build a saw-mill at the forks of Rancocas Creek.|| The matter was referred to the commissioners, but it is probable that it was never satisfactorily arranged, as in 1686 a survey was made for his father, Richard Mathews, of 450 acres on a branch of Woodbury Creek, called Mathews Run.¶ He named this estate

Thomas Mathews married, first, 12th mo. (February) 16, 1663, Hannah Day, † of Wendon, in Essex, by whom he had issue one child, Hannah, born 8th mo. (October) 28, 1664, who married Thomas Gardiner, Esq. See that family, Chapter X, p. 49. He married, secondly, 1st mo. ## CHAPTER XII.

ELTON FAMILY.

THE ELTONS were established in the County of Wilts, England, as early as the sixteenth century, as appears by the wills of various members of the family who were then living in different parts of the country. They were yeomen, and consequently freeholders, occupying a position second only to that of the landed gentry.*

I. ANTHONY ELTON, 1st, of Sowley (now Soley), in the Parish of Chilton Folliatt, County Wilts, yeoman, was the brother of Thomas, of the same place, yeoman, who died without issue in March, 1619, bequeathing three-fourths of his estate to his wife, and the remainder to his brother Anthony, whom he appointed executor.

Anthony Elton, 1st, had issue, among others, a daughter, the wife of ——— Shaddow, and a son, Robert, of whom hereafter.†

II. ROBERT ELTON, of Sowley, in the Parish of Chilton Folliatt, County Wilts, yeoman, (son of Anthony, 1st,) resided in a house on the beath, which by his will, dated January (11th mo., O. S.) 13, 1663, he bequeathed to his wife Margery, together with the orchard and six acres of land. With the exception of small legacies to his daughters and grandchildren, the remainder of his property devolved on his son Anthony, who was also his executor. See Appendix XXIII.

Mr. Elton died some time about the end of the year 1668, as the inventory of the personal property, which was valued at £60 10s. 0d., was dated January, 1668, though his will was not probated until April (2d mo., O. S.) 20, 1669.‡

Robert Elton married, first, Jane ———, who was buried

III. ANTHONY ELTON, 2d, of the Parish of Yatesbury, County Wilts, yeoman, (son of Robert and Jane,) was church warden of that parish for seven years, serving first in 1660, and last in 1678. In June, 1677, he, together with John Pope, whose interest he afterwards acquired, purchased of Thomas Hooton, of London, one full equal and undivided eighth part of one full equal and undivided nineteenth part of ninety-hundredths parts of the Province of West New Jersey.‡ During the next year he bought a like share of propriety from Messrs. Thomas and Henry Gerrish. The conveyance was dated March 11, 1678, on which date, while residing at Yatesbury, he divided the above two-eighths into four equal shares, conveying two parts of the land thus divided to Thomas Gardiner, of Warminster, and Thomas Gerrish, of Bromham, County Wilts; the consideration in this case being £20 10s. 6d., and the annual rent of “one peper corne, payable on y<sup>e</sup> feast day of the Annunciation of our Blessed Lady Saint Mary y<sup>e</sup> Virgin.”§

Mr. Elton having retained sufficient right to constitute himself one of the Proprietors of West Jersey, accompanied by his wife and children, immigrated to that province about the close of the year 1678, taking up land in Northampton Township, on the banks of the river of that name, but which is now called Rancocas Creek,|| and died some time prior to April 2, 1687, when “Anthony Elton, son and heir of Anthony Elton, late of Northampton River, in the County of Burlington and Province of West New Jersey,” conveyed 1018 acres of land in that

IV. ANTHONY ELTON, 3d, of Northampton Township, Burlington County, N. J., yeoman, (eldest son and heir of Anthony, 2d, and Susanna,) succeeded his father as one of the Proprietors of the Province of West New Jersey.§ He did not, however, avail himself of the opportunity which his position gave him of taking an active part in the politics of the time, but devoted himself exclusively to the cultivation of his estate, which was quite extensive. Though residing in a community composed principally of members of the Society of Friends, he, like his father and most of his descendants, remained faithful to the Church of England.

Mr. Elton died in 1704, his will being dated November 11, 1702, and proved April 16, 1704. He gave his wife Elizabeth the use of his dwelling-house and plantation during the minority of his eldest son, Revell, to whom he also bequeathed the plantation which had belonged to his father and his proprietary rights in the province.

CHAPTER XIII.

THE ancient family of Revel, or Revell, of Newbold Revel, in Warwickshire, had a branch settled at Ogston, in Derbyshire, from which the Revells of Whiston and Brompton, in Yorkshire, are supposed to be descended. Their arms were: "Argent, on a chevron gules, three trefoils ermine, all within a bordure engrailed sable; crest, a cubit arm in armour, garnished or, couped at the elbow; holding in the hand a dagger, point downwards, ppr., between two bats' wings of the second, membraned of the first."* A Thomas Revell resided at Whiston in the year 1590, when he married Elizabeth Crawshaw, by whom he had issue Elizabeth, Mary, Sarah, and William.† This gentleman is the first of the name mentioned in the parish registers, and was probably the uncle of John Revell, of whom hereafter.

I. JOHN REVELL, 1st, of Whiston, County York, gentleman, (so styled in his son's will,) was buried March 4, 1667. He married Elizabeth ———, who was buried April 12, 1657.‡

- ii. THOMAS, of Burlington,§ and afterwards of Northampton Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, (son of John and Alice,) was born at Whiston, County York, April 20, 1660, and bapt. May 6. He m. in 1677-78, and with his wife and sister accompanied his cousin, Mahlon Stacy, to America, embarking at Hull, in Yorkshire, on the ship "Shield," which arrived opposite Burlington, on the Delaware, in December (10th mo.), 1678, that being the first vessel that came so far up the river. "She moor'd to a tree, and the next morning the people came "ashore on the ice, so hard had the river suddenly frozen." Under date of 4th mo. (June) 26, 1680, Mahlon Stacy wrote to his brother Revell, describing the herring fisheries at Burlington, when he mentioned their cousin Revell ||

Mr. Revell first settled at Burlington, where he built himself a house, appearing as a freeholder and clerk of that town in 1680, recorder in 1696, one of the collectors of the province and county tax in 1700, and councilman and treasurer in 1701.¶ In June, 1696, he purchased a dwelling-house and plantation on Rancocas Creek, near the residence of his brother-in-law, Anthony Elton, 3d, and not long afterwards conveyed his town house to his married daughter ** In 1682 he was commissioned provincial clerk and recorder, holding that position, which was his first provincial office, until 1691, when Dr. Daniel Coxe conveyed the government of the province to the West Jersey Society, by whom he was recommissioned, April 18, 1692, with the title of "Secretary, Registrar, and Keeper of the Rolls of the Province of West New Jersey."†† While the incumbent of this office he kept a book of records which is known by his name and is the repository of much valuable information.‡‡

Mr. Revell was a member of the Church of England, and though connected with the Stacys, who were all Friends, does not appear to have been in sympathy with the members of that religious body, as in 1691 he, in connection with John Tatham and Nathaniel Westland, published an anonymous pamphlet aimed against Samuel Jennings, an eminent member of the Society of Friends. In 1703, on the arrival of the new Governor, Viscount Cornbury, he became an active partisan of that gentleman, serving as a member of his council, though not a proprietor of the province, until June, 1708, when he was unseated on a petition addressed to the Lords of Trade, who recommended his removal to the Queen. September 14, 1703, Colonel Daniel Coxe, of Philadelphia, signed a power of attorney in favor of Thomas Revell, and in the petition previously referred to it is alleged that he conspired with Colonel Coxe to deprive them, the petitioners, of their purchase from his father, and that he was one of the persons made use of by Lord Cornbury to prevent these members of the Assembly from occupying their seats in that body.* He was during Lord Cornbury's administration twice appointed judge of the Inferior Court of Common Pleas, and June 7, 1708, commissioned one of the justices of the Supreme Court, having also been for several years a justice of the peace for the County of Burlington.† He was thoroughly acquainted with public business, but his connection with Lord Cornbury's government rendered him unpopular, and prevented him from obtaining any public employment after that Governor's removal.

Thomas Revell m., in 1677-78, Mary ———, who is last mentioned April 12, 1694, when she was one of the witnesses of the marriage of their dau. Ann to Joseph White, of Burlington, who d. November 7, 1754, at 85 years, and was buried in St. Mary's Churchyard.‡

STACYE FAMILY.

THE family of Stacy, or Stacey, is said to have been settled in the vicinity of Sheffield, in Yorkshire, at a very early date, their arms being: Azure, on a fess between three falcons close, or; as many fleurs-de-lis of the first; crest, a dexter arm couped at the elbow, habited azure, cuff argent, charged with three bezants, and holding in the hand, ppr., a fleur-de-lis, or. The first of the family of whom the compiler has found any authentic information was a Stacey of Sheffield, who had issue three sons: John, of Ballifield, in the Parish of Hansworth and County of York, gent., ancestor of Mahlon Stacy, of Burlington County, N. J., who was buried May 11, 1594, his will being dated April 3, 1593; Richard, mentioned in his brother's will, and Mahlon Stacey, of whom hereafter.

I. MAHLON STACYE, Esquire, Lord of the Manor of Owlerton, in the Parish of Sheffield and County of York, was buried in the parish church April 14, 1590, as directed by his will, which was dated November 26, 1589.

He married Philippa ——, (who married, secondly, November 18, 1596, Thomas Robinson,) by whom he had issue a son and heir, Robert Stacey, of whom hereafter.

II. ROBERT STACYE, Esquire, (son and heir of Mahlon and Philippa,) succeeded his father as Lord of the Manor of Owlerton, and was living in 1666, when he held a court-baron at Owlerton. ### TONKIN FAMILY.

I. EDWARD TONKIN, of Springfield Township, Burlington County, West New Jersey, was one of the early settlers of that locality, and probably came either from Cornwall or Devonshire, as the name is common in those counties. The public records of Burlington County contain only one mention of his name, and he does not appear to have been a member of the Society of Friends.

He died a short time prior to March 14, 1690-91, O. S., when John Tonkin gave bonds to faithfully administer the estate of his "late father, Edward Tonkin, of Springfield, deceased."*

CHAPTER XVI.

CAREY FAMILY.

I. ANTHONY CAREY, of Donaghadee, a small seaport and watering-place in the County of Down, about twenty-two miles from Belfast, Ireland; born in the year 1716; the representative of a Protestant family established at that place prior to 1624, the date of erection of the house in which his ancestors had lived and in which all his children were born. The house and outbuildings are, however, now in ruins. In the barn was held the first Methodist meeting in the town, his daughter Mary having obtained from him permission for the members of that society to use it as a place of worship. Before this their meetings had been held in the open air.*

Anthony Carey died January 6, 1809, having married, about 1753, Jane Wright, who died April 6, 1812, aged 83 years. Their tombstones, erected by their son, Andrew Carey, of Wilmington, Delaware, are still standing in the graveyard of the parish church at Donaghadee. See Appendix XXVII.

- iii. JANE, b. November 6, 1760.

(son of Anthony and Jane, of Donaghadee, County Down, Ireland,) was born at Donaghadee, November 14, 1762, and immigrated to America, with his wife and infant daughter, in 1793, settling at Wilmington, where he acquired considerable property. Mr. Carey visited Ireland twice, but only for the purpose of claiming some property which he had inherited, and died at Wilmington, October 1, 1845, aged 83 years,* his estate being administered on the 7th by his son-in-law, John Tripp Robinson,† whose son, A. K. Robinson, of Wilmington, relates an incident connected with his grandfather's first voyage to this country which gives his descendants a pleasant insight into his character, and shows how well his nautical knowledge served him: "One storm was particularly severe, and the ship would have been lost but for his courage. During the storm the mast went by the board, and being still held by the cordage, could not float away from the ship, but was striking the hull with such strong and continuous strokes that in a short time it would have been stove in and the ship sunk. None of the crew could be induced to go over the side of the ship to cut away the mast, and Andrew Carey volunteered, and was lowered over the side, axe in hand, and performed his office, like the brave man he was, and no doubt saved the lives of all on board." ‡

Andrew Carey married, in Ireland, February 18, 1791, Mary Ann, daughter of Joseph Bigger, Esquire, of County Down, by his wife, Sarah Ponsonby, a relative of the Earls of Bessborough. She was born November 14, 1770, and died at Wilmington, January 9, 1824.§ It was a runaway match, and Mrs. Carey never obtained the forgiveness of her parents, as her husband belonged to the patriotic party in Irish politics; was a member of the Methodist Society, and did not occupy quite the same position as the Biggers, who belonged to an ancient and wealthy family. Their arms are registered at the office of the Ulster King-at-Arms, in Dublin, and are as follows: Argent, a bend ragulée azure, between three mullets gules. Crest, a demi pelican sable, vulning herself, ppr.

PENELOPE STOUT'S ADVENTURES WITH THE INDIANS.

WHILE New York was in possession of the Dutch, about the time of the Indian War in New England, a Dutch ship coming from Amsterdam was stranded on Sandy Hook, but the passengers got on shore. Among them was a young Dutchman who had been sick most of the voyage. He was taken so bad after landing that he could not travel; and the other passengers being afraid of the Indians, would not stay till he recovered, but made what haste they could to New Amsterdam. His wife however would not leave him; the rest promised to send as soon as they arrived: They had not been long gone before a company of Indians, coming down to the water side, discovered them on the beach, and hastening to the spot, soon killed the man, and cut and mangled the woman in such a manner that they left her for dead. She had strength enough to crawl up to some old logs not far distant, and getting into a hollow one, lived mostly in it for several days, subsisting in part by eating the excrescences that grew from it. The Indians had left some fire on the shore, which she kept together for warmth: having remained in this manner for some time, an old Indian and a young one coming down to the beach found her; they were soon in high words, which she afterwards understood was a dispute; the former being for keeping her alive, the other for dispatching: After they had debated the point a while, the first hastily took her up, and tossing her upon his shoulder, carried her to a place near where Middletown now stands, where he dressed her wounds and soon cured her: After some time the Dutch at New Amsterdam, hearing of a white woman among the Indians, concluded who it must be, and some of them came to her relief. The old man her preserver gave her the choice either to go or stay; she chose the first! A while after marrying to one Stout, they lived together at Middletown among other Dutch inhabitants. The old Indian who saved her life used frequently to visit her; at one of his visits she observed him to be more pensive than common, and sitting down he gave three heavy sighs; after the last she thought herself at liberty to ask him what was the matter? He told her he had something to tell her in friendship, tho' at the risk of his own life, which was, that the Indians were that night to kill all the whites, and advised her to go off for New Amsterdam. She asked him how she could get off? He told her he had provided a canoe at a place which he named: Being gone from her, she sent for her husband out of the field, and discovered the matter to him, who not believing it, she told him the old man never deceived her, and that she with her children would go; accordingly going to the place appointed they found the canoe and paddled off. When they were gone, the husband began to consider the thing, and sending for five or six of his neighbors, they set upon their guard. About midnight they heard the dismal war-whoop; presently came up a company of Indians; they first expostulated, and then told them, if they persisted in their bloody design, they would sell their lives very dear: Their argument prevailed, the Indians desisted, and entered into a league of peace, which was kept without violation. From this woman, thus remarkably saved, with her scars visible through a long life, is descended a numerous posterity of the name of Stout, now (1765) inhabiting New Jersey.

DESCENDANTS OF RICHARD AND ABIGAIL STOCKTON.*

I. RICHARD STOCKTON, of Flushing, Long Island, and afterwards of Oneanickon, Springfield Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, who is presumed to have been a descendant of John Stockton, Esquire, of Keddington, previously referred to, arrived at Flushing from England some time prior to November 8, 1656, when his name appears in a petition of some of the inhabitants of that town requesting the release of William Wickendom, who had been fined and imprisoned for preaching without license.

Richard Stockton was a freeholder of the town; in 1665 appointed lieutenant of the Horse Company of Flushing, and in 1669 elected lieutenant of the Foot Company of the same place, which latter appointment the Governor allowed him to decline on account of his previous employment in the Horse service. About this time, or shortly afterwards, he became a member of the Society of Friends, and in 1690 removed to New Jersey, purchasing the Oneanickon estate, which consisted of about 2000 acres in Springfield Township, Burlington County. In 1694 he disposed of his property at Flushing for the consider-* Compiled principally from the records of wills, conveyances, births, marriages, and deaths, and reliable information obtained from several members of the family, though the compiler is indebted to Mr. J. W. Stockton's history of the Princeton branch of this family for his account of the descendants of Richard Stockton the Signer, and his brother, the Rev. Philip Stockton. This is, of course, not even a full list of the descendants of Richard and Abigail Stockton bearing the name of Stockton, but is inserted here as the compiler believes it to be accurate as far as it goes, and very nearly complete in the first four generations. He hopes, however, some time to publish a full and complete history of the American Stocktons, and will be glad to correspond with any descendants of the family who may feel disposed to assist him in any way.—W. RICHARD STOCKTON,<sup>2</sup> (Richard,<sup>1</sup>) of Stony Brook, (now Princeton), Somerset County, New Jersey, accompanied his father to New Jersey, and settled at Piscataway, in Middlesex County. In August, 1696, he acquired from the Proprietors of East New Jersey a tract of 400 acres of land on the north side of Stony Brook, the consideration being a yearly quit rent of £4 sterling, and in 1701 purchased of William Penn, for the sum of £900 lawful money of Pennsylvania, an estate of 5500 acres on Stony Brook, of which the present town of Princeton is the center.* In June, 1709, he was one of the trustees of the Friends' Meeting-house at Stony Brook, but died the next month.

* Mr. J. W. Stockton, in his History of the Stockton Family, quotes Hagemann's History of Princeton as his authority for the statement that when Richard Stockton settled at Princeton the place had no name, and that he afterwards named it Stony Brook, in remembrance of a little stony brook that coursed through his land on Long Island, but the deeds for Richard Stockton's property show it to have been so called before his settlement.

THE VIRGINIA STOCKTONS.*

A FAMILY of Stocktons not in any way connected with the New Jersey family of the same name resided in Virginia during the early part of the last century, when three of its members, Richard, Robert, and Thomas Stockton, were living in the provinces. These gentlemen were no doubt very nearly related; indeed it seems almost certain that Robert and Thomas, who at one time lived in the same county, were brothers.

I. RICHARD STOCKTON, of the Parish of St. Annes, Albemarle County, Virginia, obtained a grant of 400 acres in the County of Goochland, in 1745, and subsequently other grants in Albemarle County, where he died in 1775, his will being proved in October of that year. He had issue: †

- i. THOMAS, d. in 1783; m. Rachel ———, by whom he had issue.
- ii. JOHN.
- iii. ROBERT.
- iv. DAVID.
- v. RICHARD.

II. ROBERT STOCKTON was one of the original settlers at Shepherdstown, on the Potomac, in 1734, but removed to what is now Berkeley County, West Virginia, where he died in 1778, having married Mrs. Fleming, née Keith. They had issue, among others: ‡

- i. GEORGE, b. 1742, who, with his sister Isabella, was carried away from his father's house by the Indians on their return from the massacre of the settlers at Meeley's Fort, about 9 miles from Shepherdstown. This occurred on the morning of September 17, 1746, and he remained in captivity for about three years, when he succeeded in making his escape and returning to his parents. He afterwards m. a Miss Dorsey, of Maryland, and in 1776 removed, with his half-brother, Colonel John Fleming, to Fleming County, Kentucky, where he d. April 9, 1819.

- ii. ISABELLA, b. 1746, was captured at the same time as her brother, and after a captivity of one month sold to a Canadian trader, who took her to his home in Montreal, where she was carefully educated. She was eventually restored to her parents, and afterwards m. Colonel Wm. McCleery.

III. THOMAS STOCKTON,<sup>1</sup> of Berkeley County, West Virginia, born about 1709, was supposed to have been identical with Thomas son of Richard and Susanna Stockton, of Stony Brook (now Princeton), New Jersey, * until investigation led to the discovery that that gentleman was born in the year 1703, and that he (Thomas of Berkeley County) was related to the other Stocktons living in that locality, who were not in any way connected with the New Jersey family. About the year 1770 Thomas Stockton removed to Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, where his son Robert was already settled, and took up his residence with his daughter, Elizabeth Waddell, removing with her to Mercersburg, Pennsylvania, where he died, May 31, 1795, "a very old man, aged over 86 years." He was an elder of the Presbyterian Church, and had issue:

- vi. ISABELLA, m. — Neilson.
- vii. MARY, m. — Badd.
- viii. MARGARET, m. — Johnson.

VIII. REV. JOSEPH STOCKTON,<sup>3</sup> (Robert,<sup>2</sup> Thomas,<sup>1</sup>) of Alleghany, Pennsylvania; born February 25, 1779; educated at Jefferson College, Cannonsburg, where he was graduated M.A., and afterwards studied theology under John M'Millan, D.D., a Presbyterian clergyman. He became a licentiate in 1799; was ordained in 1801, and appointed first pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Meadville, where he resided for nine years, during which time he had charge of the Academy, which still continues a thriving institution. In 1809 he was appointed principal of the Pittsburg Academy, which afterwards became the Western University, and held the position for eleven years. His ministerial services were devoted from his first establishment at Pittsburg to the soldiers at the garrison, to the building of a church at Alleghany, and supplying the infant congregation at Pine Creek, until 1820, when he for the next nine years devoted himself to the Alleghany and Pine Creek congregations.
