THE JAUNCEYS OF NEW YORK.

The brothers John and James Jauncey, of New York, mariners, were natives of the Bermuda Islands, and descendants of James Jauncey, the younger son of a good family in England, who was at one time prisoner of war in France, and who married there (or in England after his release) Angelique DuBois, a French Protestant. The young couple soon after their marriage settled in Bermuda, and were the ancestors of all the American Jaunceys. Such is the tradition in Bermuda, where many members of the Jauncey family still reside.

The name of M. Jauncey, doctor, residing at No. 15 King Street, is found in the New York Directory for 1786, and Javan Jauncey, residing at No. 15 Beekman Street, appears in the Directory for 1793. Isaac Jauncey, shipmaster, lived at 33 Dey Street, in 1804. Nothing is known of the history of these men. But the probability is that they were natives of the Bermuda Islands.

We know nothing of the history of the brothers John and James Jauncey until their appearance in New York as masters of merchant vessels. John in 1737, and James in 1743.

The portrait of John Jauncey, facing the title page, is a copy of the original, painted about 1765, and lately in the possession of his great grand daughter, Mrs. Arent H. Schnyler, of Harrison, near Belleville, New Jersey.

JOHN JAUNCEY AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

1. John Jauncey was master of a merchant vessel trading between New York and the West Indies. In the year 1737 he married Sarah Van Tienhoven (mar. bond 7 Sept., 1737), daughter of Cornelius Van Tienhoven and Gertruyd (Hibon) his wife. She was b. November, 1717, bap. in the Dutch Church, N. Y., 20th Nov., 1717, d. 18th September, 1763, aged 45 years and 9 months, and was buried in Trinity Churchyard.

In 1743 Capt. Jauncey sailed from New York in a fine new privateer ship, called the "Lincoln," 14 guns, in company with the brig "Triton," Capt. Rosevel, on a cruise against his majesty's enemies. The Lincoln, after a successful cruise, was lost on the Spanish coast, 11th December, 1745. In the spring of 1746 Capt. Jauncey returned to New York in command of a French prize, "The Annunciation," taken by his colleague, Capt. Rosevel, off the coast of Hispaniola. He then resumed his trading voyages to the West Indies. In the year 1756 we find him in New York, engaged in the business of fitting out privateers. In September of that year he was owner, with John Lawrence of New York, merchant, of the privateer "Charming Sally," 26 guns.

In February, 1757, he appears as part owner, with Thomas Vardill, of the snow "Mary Ann," 30 guns. In June, 1757, he was the owner, with John Lawrence, of another "Charming Sally," 12 guns. In October, 1757, he took command of "a beautiful new ship, the Royal Hunter," built in Connecticut, "belonging to Nathaniel Martin and John Alsop, jr., mounting 20 six-pounders, and carrying 150 men," and sailed on a privateering voyage to the West Indies. The voyage was a prosperous one. In January, 1759, Capt. Jauncey had returned to New York, and was part owner of the privateer "Sally," 10 guns, and "Polly," 6 guns. Soon after this he resumed his trading voyages, and was captain of a merchant vessel for the rest of his life.

He was one of the subscribers to the fund raised 8th April, 1761, for the repairs of the Church of England, at Jamaica, N. Y. In 1764 he married Margaret Heyder (mar. bond Aug. 23, 1764). She died about the year 1800. He died in the winter of 1767-8, leaving a will by which he divided his estate equally between his children and his wife. He appointed his wife executrix, his brother James and friend John Alsop, executors. The will is recorded in the N. Y. Surrogate's office. He was the owner of property in King (now Pine) Street, and in Beekman Street.

From the account rendered by the executrix it appears that the King Street house was in the year 1776 "occupied by the troops," and no rent was collected for that year.

An auction of his household effects was held April 22d, 1768, "at his late residence in French Church Street." There was sold "A large quantity of household furniture, consisting of looking glasses and sconces, chairs, &c., also some plate, several negroes, and several other articles."

JAMES JAUNCEY, THE LOYALIST.

James Jauncey, brother of John (1) Jauncey, was master of a merchant vessel trading between New York and Jamaica. In July, 1743, he arrived in New York, in command of the sloop "Charity," and on the 28th of the same month he married Maria (or Mary), daughter of William Smith,* sea captain, and Charity (Busch), his wife. Soon after his marriage he abandoned the sea, and became a merchant in New York. His place of business was "near the Fly Market." In June, 1753, he advertised for sale "a large assortment of European and Indian goods, just imported." He was a member of the Wall Street Presbyterian Church, where his son William was baptised on Christmas Day, 1744.

On 19 November, 1753, he joined in the call given to Rev. Joseph Bellamy, of Bethlehem, Conn., to become Pastor of the Wall Street Church. On 31 Dec., 1753, he and Nathaniel Hazard were named as commissioners to represent their church in a council to be convened at Bethlehem, to give advice in the matter. On 24 January, 1754, the council met and advised Bellamy to accompany the commissioners to New York, and to preach there before his final decision. He did so, and became Jauncey's personal friend. Upon the return of the minister and the commissioners it was advised that Bellamy should not accept the call, and he joyfully determined to stay in Bethlehem.

5. SARAH.

(The sister of Mrs. Sarah (Het) Smith was the mother of William Smith, historian of New York, and Chief Justice of Canada.)

In the fall of 1754 Captain Jauncey opened a correspondence with Bellamy, urging him unsuccessfully to change his determination.

In 1757 Captain Jauncey engaged extensively in fitting out privateers, and during that year and the year 1758, he became the owner (either in whole or in part) of the privateers, ship "Oliver Cromwell," 16 guns, John Nicoll, commander; schooner "America," 10 guns; sloop "Mary Anne," 10 guns; sloop "Lord Howe," 10 guns; sloop "Good Intent," 10 guns. In 1759 he added to his fleet the schooner "Caty," 10 guns.

In the spring of 1758 "James Jauncey, near the Fly Market," advertises for sale a long list of dry goods. "Said Jauncey has also to sell old Madeira, rum, sugar, coffee, tea, pepper, copperas, &c., &c."

On 10 June, 1758, he was appointed one of the wardens of the Port of New York. This office he held until he resigned it in the year 1774.

On 10 June, 1758, he petitioned the authorities to have one of his vessels appointed a "flag of truce, to carry French prisoners to such parts as might be ordered." He having in December, 1757, offered to carry them at a very small charge.

On 10 December, 1764, Captain Jauncey and several other gentlemen formed a "society for the promoting of art, agriculture and economy in the Province of New York."

He was one of the merchants who, in October, 1765, during the famous Stamp Act excitement, resolved to ship no more goods from England unless the Act was repealed. He was also one of the twelve who addressed the General Assembly on the state of the country, on behalf of the meeting of twelve hundred freemen and freeholders, held in November, 1765.

On 11 February, 1768, Captain Jauncey offered himself as a Candidate for the General Assembly, and on 11 March, 1768, he was elected. This Assembly was prorogued by the Governor on 5th July, 1768, before the members had qualified, and did not meet until October, 1768.

As soon as the Assembly met after the election, John Morin Scott, a lawyer, a member of the Wall Street Presbyterian Church, and one of the defeated candidates for the Assembly, preferred charges of corruption against Jauncey. The Assembly examined the charges, and after a long and tedious hearing, on 16 Dec., 1768, resolved, by a very large majority, that Mr. Jauncey was not guilty, and that he was entitled to his seat.

In April, 1768, the Chamber of Commerce was founded, Jauncey being one of the founders.

On 21 January, 1769, Captain Jauncey was re-elected to the General Assembly, after a sharp struggle, and in opposition to the party favored by his church. At the close of the poll the four successful members gave £200 to the poor. At this time appeared a song containing the following verse :

"To Jauncey, my souls, let your praises resound;
With wealth and success may his goodness be crowned;
May the cup of his joy never cease to run o'er,
For he gave to us all when he gave to the poor."

After the election the four successful candidates were conducted to the coffee-house by a great concourse of people, many of them Germans, some of the first gentlemen in town joining in singing a song in the German language, the chorus of which was :

"Measter Cruger, DeLancey,
"Measter Walton and Jauncey."*

He continued a member of the Assembly until its final dissolution in 1775.

On 23 November, 1773, Captain Jauncey's second son, James, was married to Eleanor, daughter of Andrew Elliot, collector of the Port, and on 9 March, 1774, James Jauncey, jr., was appointed by Governor Tryon, in Council, Master of the Rolls.

In May, 1774, Captain Jauncey was elected a member of the committee of 51, to concert measures of remonstrance to the arbitrary course of the British Parliament. He was present at the meeting of 23d May, 1774, but did not again attend.

On 23 June, 1774, Jauncey petitioned the Legislature for a grant to himself and his associates of 35,000 acres of land on the west side of Connecticut River, to be erected into a township by the name of Jaunceyborough. He had made a similar petition in December, 1769, but it does not appear that the grant was ever made.

* Life of Peter Van Schatek, LL.D., New York, 1842, pp. 11 and 12.

On 14 January, 1775, James Jauncey, jr., Master of the Rolls, was appointed a member of the Council, in the room of Sir William Johnson, dec'd, and on 2d February he took the oaths and his seat.

About this time "James Jauncey, Esquire, a gentleman of great wealth and respectability," Andrew Elliot, Collector of the Port, William Smith, the Historian of New York, and others, members of the Wall Street Presbyterian Church, found it necessary for them to take sides in the contest between the mother country and the Colonies, and chose the side of Great Britain, the great body of the Presbyterians, with their Pastor, being advocates of American Independence. The Pastor, Dr. Rodgers, was greatly attached to these gentlemen, and parted from them with great pain.* Captain Jauncey thenceforward formed one of the loyalist majority in the House of Assembly.

On 5 June, 1776, the name of James Jauncey, junior, appears in a list of suspected persons furnished to the Provincial Congress of New York. In a list of June 15, 1776, his name was marked for arrest. He wrote to Gouverneur Morris, member of the New York Convention, an old friend, requesting information as to the charges against him, but Morris answered that the Convention was too busy to give attention to his case. On 19 July, 1776, General Washington requested the N. Y. Committee of Safety to remove young Jauncey from the city. He was arrested in August, 1776, together with his father and brother William, and sent to Middletown, Connecticut, from whence the father, by permission of the Connecticut Committee of Safety, soon returned to Westchester, N. Y., and took his wife and family and the wife of his son James to Middletown.

On 29 November, 1776, James Jauncey, junior, wrote to members of the New York Committee of Safety, complaining that he had never been informed of the nature of the charges against him, and requesting that he, with his father and brother, might be permitted to return to their homes. His father-in-law, Andrew Elliot, also requested that his daughter and her husband be permitted to return.

The Committee refused, for the reason that young Jauncey still claimed to hold office under the "late government;" that he was apprehended not only on that account, but also because he was connected by marriage with Sir Gilbert Elliot, member of Parliament, active against the liberties of America, and one of the Cabinet as well as of the Privy Council of the King of Great Britain*; and also, that a granting of the request would imply the consent on the part of the Convention to his exercise of the offices he claimed to hold.

“That in respect to the elder Jauncey, no application being personally made by him, it would be a depreciation of the honor of the convention to take any notice of the application of his son in his behalf.”

On 20th December, 1776, the Connecticut Committee gave the Jaunceys permission to return home on their parole. They arrived in New York on the 29th of December.

On 11th August, 1777, James Jauncey, junior, died in New York, without issue, leaving his widow Eleanor surviving.

She married Admiral Robert Digby † on August 17, 1784, and died in England in 1830. Her only daughter, Jane Elizabeth Digby, in 1824 married Edward Law, Earl of Ellenborough.

In December, 1777, Captain Jauncey was appointed by Governor Robertson, one of a Committee for the relief of the poor in New York. The appointment of this committee was rendered necessary by the breaking up of the churches, and the absence from the city of the Vestrymen and Trustees, who had formerly taken care of the poor of their respective congregations.

On 22 October, 1779, the Legislature of New York passed an Act for the forfeiture of the estates and the banishment of the persons of Captain Jauncey and others. It is probable that Jauncey's large personal estate had already been transferred to

* Andrew Elliot, father of Mrs. James Jauncey, jr., was the brother of Sir Gilbert Elliot. Another brother, Captain John Elliot, was second in command of the fleet at New York, under Lord Howe in 1778. Hugh Elliot, son of Sir Gilbert, was British Minister at Berlin from 1778 to 1782. A servant of Mr. Elliot's abstracted in 1777 the papers of Arthur Lee, the American Commissioner at Berlin, which papers were returned by his master. The late Admiral Charles Elliot, R. N., Governor of Bermuda, and formerly British Minister to Texas, was the son of Hugh Elliot. Eleanor Elliot, sister of Hugh, married William Eden, one of the British Commissioners to America in 1783, created Lord Auckland in 1789.

† “The Admiral” wrote William Eden, “is a good man, and rich as Pactolus; he does not consider a set of features or the tincture of a complexion as essential ingredients in matrimony. Mr. Andrew Elliot has had luck in the marriage of his daughters. I am glad of it, for he has great merits.” —Memoir of Rt. Hon. Hugh Elliot, by the Countess of Minto, Ellinburgh, 1868.

England, as when he died he was worth £100,000. He retired to England and resided in London.

In February, 1784, he petitioned the Legislature, praying for relief against the Confiscation Act. The petition was presented to both houses. In the Senate it was read and ordered to lie on the table. In the House it was referred to a Committee.

On 9 September, 1788, Mary, wife of James Jauncey, died in New York, aged 67 years, and was buried in a vault in Trinity Church.

On 22 January, 1790, William and John Jauncey petitioned the Legislature, praying that the operation of the act whereby their father, James Jauncey, was prevented from returning to this State, might as to him, be repealed.

In April, 1790, the act was passed allowing Jauncey and others to return and to remain within this State. But the permission came too late, for on 6th February, 1790, James Jauncey dropped down at the door of Providence Chapel, Little Tichfield Street, Marylebone, London, and expired immediately. *
