Mourn Death of Charles E. Walker

For fifty years a useful citizen of Sycamore

Head of Citizens Bank

Charles E. Walker, President of the Citizens National Bank for 59 years resident of Sycamore, a public-spirited citizen identified with all the forward movements, a sociable, entertaining companion, good friend, and good husband and father, passed from this life at his home at West State Street on Tuesday night, November 16.

A few years ago he was for many weeks confined to the house by illness, and had not since fully regained his strength. During the years that followed, his friends and acquaintances saw very little difference in him, and he had successfully carried on the affairs of the bank. But the last few weeks he had been feeling less disposed, although he was at his desk at the bank as late as last Saturday. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia. His death was generally unexpected in the community, and was a great shock.

Some weeks ago he was examined at the Mayo Hospital and was told that his condition was due to no serious organic difficulty. He was hopeful to the end.

Charles E. Walker was a son of John Nelson Walker, who came from Hamilton township, New Castle, Upper Canada, and became a resident of Virgil township about ten miles east of Sycamore, in 1847, when this country was almost a wilderness. There, in 1847, he was married to Miss Hannah Wilson. They were successfully engaged in farming for many years. In 1870 they became residents of Sycamore. The father died in 1897, and the mother in 1907. To them were born eight children, of whom there are surviving three daughters: Nellie, wife of J. E. Harrington, and Grace, wife of C. H. Carte, and Lizzie, wife of Charles H. Hoyt, all residents of Sycamore.

Charles E. Walker was born in Virgil township on October 13, 1854. He was united in marriage in 1882 to Miss Belle Lindsey, of a well-known family, long residents here. She survives with their two daughters, Mrs. G. E. Price, of Oak Park, Illinois, and Mrs. Ralph Roberts, of Sycamore, and five grandchildren.

Mr. Walker attended the Sycamore schools even before his parents moved to this city. He attended business college at Jacksonville and Quincy, and became a fine penman and expert accountant. He was a musician of very fine taste. He was employed for several years in the office of the DeKalb County Abstract Company, and for many years as cashier of the Sycamore National Bank. About 12 years ago he organized the Citizens National Bank, which he managed with marked success as president. He was industrious, conscientious, and faithful in every trust. His judgment in matters of finance was relied upon by many.

He was a useful citizen. His loss is greatly deplored.

There was a large attendance at the funeral services, which were held at the home at two o'clock on Thursday afternoon. Rev. James O'May, pastor of the Methodist church, officiated. The remains were interred in Elmwood Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lindsey celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Monday with a twelve o'clock dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Walker on West State Street. They were assisted by their daughters, Mrs. Florence Wells, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. C. H. Hoyt, Mrs. N. G. Truby, Mrs. F. O. Van Galder, and Mrs. Howard Holcomb. The decorations were potted plants, carnations, and smilax. Upon the gathering of the guests about the tables, a congratulatory address was delivered by Dr. Kimball, who in a happy way pictured the wedding scene fifty years ago. The event was one of much enjoyment to all those present.

(Married March 27, 1849 in Campton, now Lily Lake, Illinois)

Alden-Mullin Lineage of Richard Ludden Dougherty and
Donald Keith Dougherty

The Mayflower crossed from Holland to Southampton, bearing the Leyden people bound for "Virginia". At Southampton, along with other intending settlers, they took on John Alden, 21 years old, as cooper for the company, under contract to stay in the Company's employ for one year. The trade regulations then required that ships carry a certain allotment of ale and beer for the passengers, and also required, for the keeping of these beverages that a cooper be on board. John, thus, was not of the church congregation from Leyden, nor necessarily from people of their persuasion. Yet he was no doubt recommended for the employment by some Puritan well-wisher. In 1621 the ship "Fortune" brought over a second company to Plymouth. On the return of the "Fortune", in November, 1621, some who were free to do so, or were too discouraged to stay on, returned in her. Alden's contract was up, and he was free to go or stay. Many romantic accounts have been written and sung, of how and why he chose to stay. At any rate, he and Priscilla were married before the end of the year, and had their house next to that of Standish. Alden and Standish were friends to the end of life.

They went together into the land speculation at Duxbury, built their homes near together at that place, and a daughter of Alden married a son of Standish.

William Mullins and his wife Alice came on the Mayflower with children, Priscilla and Joseph. An older daughter lived at that time in England. The parents died the first winter. Unmarried folks were parceled out in the family homes of the colony. John lodged in the Standish house, and the Mullins children were assigned to some other roof of the place. William Mullins left a will, which shows that he was a shoe dealer by occupation; at least he had brought in a stock of shoes with the idea of disposing of them by way of trade. The name was of French extraction, and may have been "Mouline", or "Moulines". Another version of the same name is Moline. In 1627, the 15 cattle of the colony, which up to that time had been owned in common were parceled out among groups of families. The Alden group got the famous heifer "Hagshorn", and each of the 12 cows seems to have been named and recorded on the Town books by name. The animal was to be kept and used by the family for ten years, when she and half her increase was to be returned to the common colony ownership.

PIERRE WALDO

of Lyons

He was a wealthy merchant. The death of a friend in 1170 moved him to lead a life of poverty and devote himself to the cause of religion. Several of the doctrines which the church in early times had pronounced heretical held on in Southern France, and in the end the Vaudois, or Waldenses, as Pierre's followers came to be called, were identified with those holding certain of the condemned opinions; but at first he seems to have had no intention of separating from the Church of Rome. He divided his property with his wife, placed his two daughters in the monastery of Pontevrault, and gave his money to the poor. Followers flocked to him, and they came to be called "The Poor Men of Lyons". Their missionaries traveled widely, making converts. Later they formed a community, or fraternity, in which there were two classes, viz: men and women who had taken the vows of poverty, chastity and obedience, who could not lawfully lie, take an oath or shed blood, and the "faithful", who were followers, but not under vows. They had bishops, priests and deacons. They were convicted of error and denounced by Church Councils in 1179, 1184 and 1190. Persecuted at Lyons, many fled into Dauphine and Piedmont. In the Albigenses persecutions in the Piedmont, in the early part of the 15th century, they suffered with the rest. At that time their headquarters were in the upper valleys of the Piedmont, where they were known as the "Poor of Piedmont", the "Leonistii", from their origin in Lyons, or as "Insabates", from the sandal-like shoes they wore. In going about they used much the disguise of merchants, which made them inconspicuous. The sect has never become quite extinct. The present principle seat is at Terre Pellice, Valdensian Valleys, in the mountains of Northern Italy, in which country they have 60 churches. They have a church in New York City and farm colonies in five American states.

DOUGHERTY FAMILY HISTORY

By G. E. Dougherty

Francis Dougherty was seven years old when independence was declared. At the age of ten years he, with his father's entire family, migrated to Armstrong County, Pennsylvania, in 1779. He remained there several years then migrated with family named Hill to Kentucky, resided there a number of years and married the daughter of Alex and Betsy (Kelley) Hill, her name was Christina, they crossed over the Ohio, and settled in what was then known as the northwest territory state of Ohio.

They had ten children born to them. The two older ones died in infancy, the next older child was James Dougherty (my grandfather) a stone mason by trade.

In 1823 he married Mary Kirkpatrick (daughter of John and Margaret (Lewis) Kirkpatrick. They had five sons and one daughter born to them. Migrated to Illinois in 1833.

Francis L. Dougherty (my father) oldest son of James and Mary Dougherty, was born March 27, 1824. When nine years old (1833) the family migrated to Vermilion County, Illinois, about two miles north of where Fairmont is located.

Francis L. married Susan A. Taylor, a family of five sons and four daughters were born to them. She died in Chicago, July 23, 1873, 37 years.

Francis L. married Isabella A. McNeal, and four sons were born to them: Lyman C., Charles E., Frank L., and Kirk. Isabella died Aug. 15th 1911.

Charles E. Dougherty born Jan. 26, 1879, at Ladora, Kansas married to Ina Wood, April 27, 1902. My great-grandfather's brother, James Dougherty (son of James and Peggy Mayberry Dougherty), went to Ohio and married there. Raised a family of children. One son was a minister, Jackson.

My great-grandfather's sister, Nancy, married John King and she died there in Pennsylvania.

My great-grandfather's brother, Joseph, joined the regular army and died somewhere on the Mississippi river. (A single man)

My great-grandfather's half brothers and sister were John, Samuel, and Polly. John married and lived in Penn. on the old homestead, Armstrong county. Samuel died there a single man. Polly married John Craig, the son of Samuel, and migrated to eastern Ohio.

My great-great-grandfather on great-grandmother's side was Alexander Hill, married to Betsey Kelly, natives of Penn. They migrated to Ohio in 1795. They raised a family of eleven children, all of whom lived and died in that vicinity, except my great-grandmother, who migrated to Illinois in 1832. She died there in 1861 at the age of 75 years.

DOUGHERTY HISTORY

C. E. Dougherty

In reply to your request I will say my grandfather Dougherty's name was James, a native of Maryland, of Irish descent as the name will signify. He was keeping a tavern in Annapolis when the French army past throo there to join Washington. He was Captain of an Infantry Company to hunt down Tories. Grandmothers name was Peggy Mabery. Her brother Beria Mabery (Mayberry) owned an iron foundry in Maryland. Grandfathers family consisted of three sons and one daughter by his first wife and two sons and one daughter by his second wife. My father (Francis) was the oldest child. His sister Nancy married John King and died in Pa. His brother James married in Ohio and died. Then Joseph died a single man, in the Regular Army I think on the lower Mississippi. The half brother and sister were John and Samuel and Polly. John married in Pa. remained on the farm that grandfather improved over 150 years ago in Armstrong County. His family was there at last account. Samuel died there a single man. Polly married Samuel Craig and settled in Eastern Ohio. If I have ever had any knolledg of the family I have forgotten it. My father Francis Dougherty was born March 3, 1769 in Maryland. At the age of ten, with his father emigrated to Armstrong County, Pa.: remained there some years then emigrated to Kentucky with grandfather Mill. They remained there one year, cross over and settled in Ohio in 1795. About this time father and mother was married - I think in Kentucky.

Am not right positive where there eight children were born. You know more than I can tell you in this rambling sketch as your father was the oldest of the eight children. You may or may not know he had two brothers that died in infancy before your father was born and I think they died unnamed. They was buried at grandfathers Hills farm. I believe you know where it is located. I have thought you may have met some person who is a family geneologist if so this may be a help to it. If it is your idea to know all you can of your ancestors. It is very commendable one and I wish I could assist you. Am over 90 years old.

Your grandfather was John Kirkpatrick and wife whose maiden name was Margaret Lewis was native of Butler Pa. I think emigrated from there to Brown County, not far from 1870. I can give the date your grandfather was born March 3rd 1769, your grandmother was born March 1776. They raised a family of eight sons and three daughters all lived to maturity. David was born February 7, 1797, Alexander was born 1797. Lewis born December 19, 1800. Mary born September 24, 1802. John born July 5, 1805. Andrew and Elizabeth born July 5, 1806. Joseph born October 5, 1808. Jane born August 11, 1811. Jesse born October 31, 1813. Thomas born July 8, 1875.

All have past away except Jesse and will here say David and Alexander served as substitutes in war of 1812. Was discharged at the close. So you would see they were very young to die.

David was twice married left a small family. Alexander died single in early life. Lewis married left a child. John died single. Andrew was twice married had six children by the first and one by the second. Joseph was twice married had five children by the first and three or four by the second. All gone but Thomas. You will remember you and I called on him in Carrington, Kentucky in 69. He now lives in Hicksman Kentucky.

James family you have. Elizabeth married and left a small family. Jesse married and had a large family - seven living in Burlington, Kentucky, except one in Fulton County (Hulton?), Arkansas. His P.O. address is Strawberry and I understand he is Postmaster.

Thomas married died early having no children. This is an awkward rambling scrawl if you can read it you can select that if any that is of interest to you.

If I had got our preacher P. H. Simmons who is a brother to Hister Jeff Kabel to write this as I dictate it, he would have got it in good shape as he is a good writer, as I know by my giving him the organization of the M.E. Church and its history for over 50 years. He rite it down in capitol stile as I gave it to him from memory as I have gave this to you.

My grandmother whose maiden name was Betsey Kelly and my grandfather Alexander Hill was native of Pa. I think emigrated to Ohio in 1795 as before stated they had eleven children all of whom lived and died in that vicinity except my mother. So far as I know their descendents remains there in Fayette County Ohio. And as giving this entirely from memory I won't enter into the family details, except to say that Aunt Davidson the oldest lived to be quite old raised a family of eight children five of them lived to be from 75 to over. Two was alive at a very recent date, two of my uncles and one aunt at advanced age without marrying. My maiden aunt died from smallpox in 64.

As I am giving this all from memory there may be slight errors in date. You will find many misspelled words, but as it is private use it will answer your purpose, if you can comprehend my meaning. A. H. D.

My father lived in Ohio 37 years left as clean a record as any man ever did had as little trouble or litigation as any man every had that did so much business as he did. He came to Illinois in 1832, lived there 38 years. You know his record here as well as I or anybody else does.

This record was written by my great uncle Alexander H. Dougherty to my father and seems to be some of father's information from which he wrote his sketch.

JAMES M. DOUGHERTY

History of Vermillion County Illinois

by G. C. Pearson

The record of an honorable life should ever be a source of inspiration and encouragement and the history of James M. Dougherty is well worthy of emulation for he always lived so as to command the confidence and good will of his fellow men. He was true to high moral principles and his high moral character and rectitude of actions, his unquestioned probity as well as his business ability made him a valued citizen of Vermillion County.

He was born in Brown county, Ohio, April 28, 1829. His father James Dougherty was also a native of the Buckeye state and in Brown county married Mary Kirkpatrick, who was there born and reared.

The great grandfather of our sketch was of Scotch-Irish descent and was born in Scotland. Desiring to become a resident of the new world he crossed the Atlantic to Maryland and at the time the colonies attempted to throw off the yoke of British oppression he joined the American army and under General Washington fought for the independence of the nation until the glorious result was achieved. His son Francis Dougherty, the grandfather of our subject was born in Maryland and emigrated westward and took up his abode in Ohio. Subsequently he came to Illinois in 1830 and was one of the landholders of this locality. His four sons including the father of our subject, then came to the west and cultivated the land which Francis Dougherty had purchased. Here he died in September 1860, and his wife who bore the maiden name of Christian Hill, and whose mother was the daughter of an English lord, passed away in 1851. In addition to the four sons already mentioned they had four daughters who also came to Vermillion county. These children were as follows: Alexander died in Vermillion county in 1838. He had married Jane Kirkpatrick who died in 1862, they had three daughters and one son, Jesse, who died while he was serving in the Civil War. Elizabeth became the wife of Mr. Ferrier, who died in 1836. Later she married Samuel Gilbert whose death occurred in the 50s. Mrs. Gilbert passed away about 1867 leaving four children, all of whom are now deceased. James, the father of our subject, was the third of the family. Malinda became the wife of William Leeper, and they resided in Bloomington, Illinois, but both are now deceased. They left three sons and two daughters and two of the sons and daughters are still living, namely: Margaret, who is matron of the Young Women's Christian Association of Chicago; Elizabeth, the wife of Dr. Wallace of Decatur; Charles a resident of New York; and William of Minneapolis.

Laberry wedded Nancy Hickman and resided in Vermilion county until his death which occurred in 1840. He left a son and three daughters, the latter all yet residents of this county. Margaret became the wife of Ira Butler and made her home in Vermilion county until her death when she left two children of whom one is living, Malinda. Samuel married Jane Dalbey and has also passed away. He resided in this county and had four daughters and three sons, of whom three daughters and one son, Benjamin, are yet living. Nancy, the youngest member of Francis Dougherty, died at the age of thirty years.

James Dougherty, the father of our subject, came to Illinois in 1833, locating in this county but was not long permitted to enjoy his new home, his death occurring in 1835, while his wife had passed away the year before (1834). He was a Whig in his political views and was a member of the Methodist-Episcopal Church. Of his family of four sons and one daughter we give the following record: Francis married Dassa Boggess and she died leaving nine children; Marcus, a resident of Shawnee, Oklahoma; Milton of Kincaid; Billy, the wife of John Irwin, who resides near Kincaid, Kansas; James A., a traveling salesman residing in Portland, Oregon; and Jennie, now deceased. After the death of Susan Layton, Francis Dougherty wedded Isabelle McNeil and is now living in Kincaid, Kansas. They had four children, three of whom survive: Lyman, a traveling salesman, St. Joseph, Missouri;

Charles, living near Kincaid; and Francis, living with his father. Kirkpatrick died at the age of one year.

John Dougherty, the second member of the family of James and Mary (Kirkpatrick) Dougherty, wedded Margaret Chenawith and after her death, wedded Ida Graves. He has since died. His widow is residing in Fairmont. Of this union there were two daughters and three sons, Lawrence and Joseph, who are living in Buena Vista, Colorado; Mollie, the widow of Dr. Wrigat, and a resident of Danville, Illinois; and Bertie, of Fairmont. Charles, the youngest child, died in 1873.

James I. Dougherty is the third member of the family. Joseph, now deceased, married Louisa Neville. They had two sons of whom one is living, Alfred, of Lincoln, Illinois. Edwin's death occurred in 1890. Mary Dougherty died at the age of sixteen years in the year 1841.

James M. Dougherty began his education in the usual style of school house of the period, built of hewed logs, furnished with slab seats and lighted by greased paper windows. This building stood at the southwest corner of what is now the homestead farm. His opportunities, however like those of other early settlers were very limited and his education was largely acquired in the practical school of experience. His father having died when he was six years of age, he lived with his grandfather and worked upon the farm. After his grandfather's death he managed the property, and he inherited forty acres of timber land from his father, and purchased eighty acres of prairie land, this making him owner of a good farm. Later he traded his eighty acres for a valuable tract of land in Vance township, and in order to further complete his arrangements for having a home of his own. Mr. Dougherty was married March 30, 1854 near Catlin, to Sarepta Jane Taylor who was born in Tipticannoe county, Indiana, September 5, 1837. At the time of their marriage, Mr. Dougherty and his wife lived in a double log house on their eighty acres of land in Vance township, and he afterwards purchased an additional tract of eighty acres. In 1854 they removed to Fairmount where he engaged in the livery business for three years. He next purchased what is known as the homestead farm of about three hundred acres, residing thereon for two years. On account of his own health and his desire to give his children better educational privileges he then removed to Danville, Illinois where for a time he was engaged in the butchering business. In connection with Benjamin Crane he built the Arlington Hotel in 1876, it being opened with impressive ceremonies on the 4th of July of the Centennial year. (At that time, the hotel was called "The Centennial") In the fall of the year 1876 Mr. Dougherty left Danville and through the succeeding year lived in Fairmount after which he erected a commodious residence upon his farm, taking up his abode there. It continued to be his residence until his death which occurred January 14th, 1839, and he was laid to rest in the Dougherty cemetery.

The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty was blessed by the birth of six children: Emma, born June 28, 1859, was married October 16, 1894 to Jester Stearns. They have one son, Dorance; Mary, born February 26, 1855, died October 25, 1860; Eva Francis, born May 22, 1860, became the wife of William Pankey, June 23, 1886, and they reside in Danville, with their three children, Layette, Dwight, and Lorton. William Pankey is an attorney and manager of the Verdillion county Abstract Company.

Alfred A. born January 29, 1863 died September 25, 1864; Maud E. born June 3, 1866 resides with her mother. Clara Kirkpatrick born August 25, 1869, was married December 23, 1894 to Dr. Augustus J. Leitzbach. They have one daughter, Elizabeth.

In his political views James M. Dougherty was first a Whig, afterward a Republican and later a Prohibitionist. He served as a candidate for representative from his district and almost was victorious. He held a number of township offices, the duties of which he discharged with marked promptness and fidelity. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, served as elder of the church of that denomination in Danville for three years and occupied a similar position in Fairmount. He was very charitable and generous, a consistent Christian

Prong Family

The records show that in the 1794, Christopher Prong bought 147 acres of land of Wm. Reynolds for which he paid the sum of One Hundred Pounds lawful money. Two months later Christopher Prong sold 32 acres to Robert Jones for the sum of Twenty Pounds. In the year 1809 said Prong made a will and two months later his will was probated. The presumption is that he died.

The purport of the will was that Elizabeth his wife, after his debts were paid, and his funeral expenses, was to be his sole heir as long as she lived or remained his widow.

John and Christopher Horn were named as his Executors.

In 1815 the executors made final report as to the settlement of the personal Estate. I found no record in any Deed Book in Records office, no record of any kind in Orphans Court and I was unable to ascertain the name or residence of any of the numerous heirs of Christopher Prong except those in Illinois, descendants of Christina Prong.

The will further provides that after the death of marriage of Elizabeth, relict of Christopher Prong, that his Estate should be sold to the highest bidder and to be divided equally between his daughters, Margaret, Susannah, Ann, Catherine, Sarah, Christine, Mary Elizabeth, Rachel, and Ulian. There is no record of sale or distribution by the Courts or any other legal process.

I was unable at the time of my examination of the Records to know the names of the heirs of said Prong (except the heirs of Christine) and as the presumption is they are all married and assume other names, however, no deeds are on record made by the said Christine Dalby, at least not appearing in the title as shown by the indices:

Otherwise it may appear that the heirs of Chris. Prong sold individually their several interests over the name since their marriage (names unknown to me). I am satisfied that the facts are that the heirs of Christine (Prong) Dalby still own all the right, titles and interest of which she died seized: viz. her interest in 115 acres on Ten Mile creek Washington County, Pennsylvania.

This land, agriculturally, is worth about $40.00 per acre, coal from $25.00 to $250.00 per acre, oil or gas 1/3 gross. Some of the names of persons now owning parts of the Prong farm are McCollough, Deanes, Horn, Mills, Cowen. There are several others that have small parts. Some of these men sold the coal to Mr. Ray for the Pittsburg Coal Co. These are as near the facts as I was able, with that dates I had and with the limited time at my command, and as I had no authority to employ a lawyer I submit the facts and the parties at interest may take such steps as they think best.

J. I. McCabe

Dalby Family

There was not until recently any record of deaths or marriages in Pennsylvania. So far as the records of Washington and Green Counties show Aaron Dalby never at any time had a deed for any land or lands whatever. The records of the Courts of Green County show a judgment was taken against Aaron Dalby in the year 1819 in favor of James Bush for debt to the amount of $600.00. There was a levy and sale of certain lands by the High Sheriff and the above judgment was obtained against Izriel and Mary Dalby as Administrators of Aaron Dalby's Estate.

This sale was confirmed by the court in the year 1845. Subsequently the heirs of Aaron Dalby brought suit to recover possession of these lands by legal process against the purchaser. They discontinued said proceedings as the records show regularity in the judgments and sale and the sale being confirmed by the court, the parties in present possession having been in peace since 1845 and in the state of Pa. twenty one years of such peaceable possession puts a rest to all legal proceedings to recover land wrongfully obtained, and as the records show that the title and interests were obtained by due process of law, it would appear to be very unwise at this late day to try to right a wrong, even though the wrongful detention of said lands could be proven, which it would appear that the direct heirs of the said Aaron Dalby were in doubt as early as 1845. Therefore it might be said that the interest in and to said land levied on and sold as the estate of Aaron Dalby by due process of law as much as eighty years ago were forever at rest.

The facts are, Aaron Dalby bought these lands of James Rush and had not obtained his deeds when he died. As there was a residue of the purchase price due and unpaid viz. one wagon (it appears Aaron Dalby was a wagon maker and was to make a wagon as part pay) at Dalby's death default having been made in the payment of these lands, suit was brought and so far as the Dalby interests were concerned, neglected, and judgment was taken for the entire sum without giving proper credits, and for the lack of interest of the Dalby heirs, title was obtained to a valuable property consisting of some 500 odd acres of land in Green County, Pennsylvania.

While it was a clear steal the parties at interest took the precaution to legalize every step of the transaction and it would be impossible at this late day to dislodge them.

Very respectfully submitted,

NOTES

Silas and Timothy Rice, older brothers of Eleazer, were captured by Indians in 1704 and lived the rest of their lives at Lachine, ten miles north of Montreal. They learned the Indian language and married Indian wives. Silas was called "Cookanowas", but Timothy, who was adopted by an Indian Chief, later became Chief Oughtsorangongton of the Cagnawagas, a tribe of Catholic Indians. In 1740 he returned for a visit to his own people but was obliged to talk through an interpreter as he had forgotten the language of the whites. The old church built in 1721 by these Indians is still standing.

Historical Address

given by Rev. G. C. Fisher of La Trobe, Pa.

at 100th anniversary reunion of Fisher family

at Long's Run Church, Ohio

The first date that can be definitely fixed in the Fisher ancestry is 1769. In that year John Fisher obtained a deed from the commonwealth of Pennsylvania for 320 acres of land on the banks of the Susquehanna river. The town of West Milton is now partly located on this tract. It is probable that this John Fisher came from Saxony. The year of his emigration cannot be definitely learned. All his children were born on this side of the ocean and according to the "annals of Buffalo valley" Henry, apparently the oldest child, died in Columbiana county, Ohio, in 1826, aged 62 years. This would fix his father's arrival in this country some time previous to 1764, five years before the purchase of the farm in the Susquehanna valley. It would seem that the first settlement was elsewhere than the banks of this river for there is a tradition that John's son, Paul, from whom the Columbiana county Fishers descend, was born near Philadelphia.

John Fisher was married twice and was the father of five sons, Henry, Paul, John, Michael and George; and of three daughters.

ters, who were married to Thomas Perry, Jacob Wirtz, and Philip Hains. The last location in which we find him is White Deer township, Buffalo valley, Northumberland county. Here he died in 1794, and according to the annals of Buffalo valley, is buried in "a corner of the field above John Datisman's store, where the valley road strikes the river". It would seem from the annals, above quoted, that he was a citizen of considerable prominence in his community.

Of the eight children born to Joan Fisher we are most intimately interested in two, Paul, our direct ancestor, and Henry, his half brother. These two brothers seem to have been closely associated. Both migrated to Columbiana county and in the present generation, some of their descendants have intermarried.

I shall first give what I have been able to gather of Henry's history. Where he was born we do not know, probably somewhere in the general vicinity of Philadelphia. He was in school when the Revolution broke out and enlisted April 15th, 1776 in Col. Samuel Miles' regiment, Captain Henry Christ's company, Second Battalion rifle regiment.

Mrs. Graveson of Harrodsburg, Ky., writes of hearing the older people in her youth joke about how Henry and other old soldiers loved to talk of their experiences at Valley Forge. There is an interesting story about a pocket book given Henry by a wounded fellow soldier. At the battle of Brandywine while the Colonial forces were in retreat, Henry ran across a wounded comrade named Sheerer who besought him to rescue him from the cruelty of the Indians who, as allies of the British, were in pursuit. Sheerer was a large man weighing some two hundred pounds but Henry who, according to tradition, was a man of great physical strength, though not of great stature, took him on his shoulders and kept up with the retreating forces for quite a distance. Crossing a stream he dipped up water in his hat and held it to the lips of the wounded man on his back. When at last a place of safety had been gained, Sheerer desired to give some tokens of his gratitude; a pocket book, stained with blood from his wound was all he had and this he gave.

My grandfather, Samuel Fisher, Henry's nephew, told of frequently seeing this pocketbook with its bloodstains. It passed into the possession of Lieutenant Gov. George Smith of Missouri, a grandson of Henry Fisher, and was destroyed when the house of his brother-in-law, Mr. H. W. Crawford, of Irribile, Mo., with whom he was temporarily living, was burned in 1866 or 1867. Henry seemed to have been at the time at Berks county, Pa. Here he married Mary Keister and here was born in 1787, Mary Fisher, who became the wife of John Smith, from whom Wisson Smith of Cannons Mill and Daniel Smith, deceased, of East Liverpool, are descended. The story of Mary Fisher's meeting with John Smith has come down to us. It seems that this daughter did not accompany her father and the other members of the family when they migrated to Columbiana county some time about 1803, but remained with an uncle on the eastern side of the mountains. A year or so later she came with an uncle and aunt to visit her father in his frontier home. Though life of what was then the western border did not appeal to her and she expressed the determination of returning east with her relatives.

In the meantime Sunday came and the young people of the countryside attended preaching at the log meeting house, riding horseback as was the custom of the day. At the noon intermission the young people went to a spring near the church for water. Here Mary met John Smith, a fine looking young farmer who asked to ride home with her after preaching. Somehow, because of the chance meeting by the spring and the homeward ride along the forest road, Mary's eyes were opened to beauties hitherto unseen in the western wilderness and she ceased to hear the call of the more cultured east.

In sometime Henry moved westward from Berks county to Buffalo valley, Northumberland county for it is from this place he migrated to Ohio.

Court records show that in 1792 he came into possession of one hundred acres of his father's farm along the Susquehanna; for this land he paid one hundred pounds. The same year and for the same price Paul Fisher secured a hundred acres of the same farm. It would seem the two brothers were living on these farms shortly after this date for among the inhabitants subject to taxation in 1796 are found these returns: "Henry Fisher, cabin and stable;" "Paul Fisher, log house and double barn". In 1797 Henry sold his tract to Simon Bennage for five hundred pounds and three years later Paul sold his tract to George Bennage for six hundred and twelve pounds. Henry Fisher preceded Paul to Columbiana county where he died in 1826.

Concerning the early history of Paul Fisher whose descendants are here gathered today, I have been able to collect but little definite information. I have already alluded to the tradition of his being born near Philadelphia and to the court records concerning him. He was a soldier in the Revolution, enlisting April 16th, 1781. His enlistment was for seven months of which he served 45 days. The remaining material gathered concerning him is in the form of story and tradition handed down in the family. There is little doubt that these traditions are in the main correct, however. There is a story of his proficient marksmanship, illustrated by his shooting a bear across the Susquehanna. It seems that this was regarded as quite a feat by his neighbors.

The most interesting story has to do with an Indian awl now in the possession of Jefferson Fisher of Crafton, Pa. This incident seems to have happened about the period of the Revolution. The Indians had made an incursion into the settlement and were killing and scalping as was their wont. A band of settlers were following in close pursuit.

Paul Fisher, then quite young, was in this company. They came on a household consisting of grandfather and mother, son and wife and two or three grandchildren. All had been killed save the grandfather who had hidden in some underbrush near the cabin. One little golden haired girl lay with head split open in a pool of her own blood. The bodies were yet warm. In this house of slaughter Paul picked up this awl dropped by some Indian in the melee. It seems to have been used in some part of the scalping process. A tomahawk picked up on the same scene was likewise handed down in the Samuel Fisher line but disappeared some time in the past generation. That scene planted in Paul's heart a bitter and lasting hate of the Indian. Later, after he had settled near Calcutta an Indian annually crossed the farm in visiting salt licks somewhere to the south on the Ohio. This Indian would always halt on the hill above Calcutta and give the war cry. Paul declared it was only the fear of provoking an Indian outbreak that prevented him from killing this red man.

Paul migrated from Buffalo valley, Northumberland county to Columbiana county, Ohio, in 1810 or 1811, very probably the latter date. All of his family of eleven children save Susie was born east of the mountains. His wife's name was Katherine Kister. It would be interesting to know whether Henry and Paul married into the same family. As we have seen, Henry's wife's name was Keister. The names as they have come down to us are spelled almost alike and the little difference might easily arise from variations on spelling. Might it be that they were sisters and that this in part accounts for the close relation that seems to have existed between the half brothers.

As we have seen Henry predeeded Paul to Ohio. There is a tradition that Paul intended pushing on farther to the west in the vicinity of Canton, but that Henry met him near Beaver and persuaded him to halt near Calcutta. An Indian outbreak to the west helped in this decision. The journey over the mountains was of course made in wagons, it was in the month of May that the emigrants drove beneath the dense shade of a wild plum grove that covered the flat in front of where the residence of that late Benjamin Fisher of Calcutta now stands. The trees were in blossom and the spring air was filled with the fragrance. The spot seemed very inviting to the wife and mother, wearied, no doubt, by the long journey. While the western country was yet very new and sparsely settled, it seems that a little cluster of cabins, five or six, perhaps, stood on the present site of Calcutta and the land on which Paul Fisher halted had been partly cleared and was owned, perhaps by a Mr. Tucker. The emigrants evidently found a vacant cabin on the farm for a story has been handed down of how a few nights after the arrival, after the family had retired, the cabin door was pushed open and an unknown man stood on the threshold and peered within. He did not enter but after a few moments turned and vanished into the forest. Most of the family possessions had been brought in silver coin across the country and thinking that the intruder might have sinister motives, Paul rose and followed him for some distance from the cabin where from the concealment of a tree he awaited his return, rifle in hand. It was probably only some wayfarer seeking shelter for the night, however, at least he did not return. Soon after this we find Paul in possession of the farm where he had halted and keeping a tavern near the site of the present dwelling house. It seems that this tavern was first built and run by John Smith and from him passed into the ownership of Paul Fisher. There were eleven children in Paul's family, seven sons, Paul, John, Michael, Peter, Samuel, Henry, and George; and four daughters, Kate Brown, Elizabeth Hamel, and Susie McCane. Of the family life few incidents have come down to the present generation. Paul seems to have been interested in the religious life of the community. The first church building of the Longs Run Presbyterian congregation was erected on the present Ben Fisher farm. Whether Paul then owned the farm or whether it was in the possession of Tucker, I am unable to ascertain. County histories that I have consulted point some one way and some another. I am inclined to believe that Paul did not come into the possession of this farm until after the erection of the church.

At any rate he seems to have been very rigid in requiring attendance on the part of his family. He had probably been a member of the Presbyterian denomination before crossing the mountains but his wife had been a member of the Dutch reformed church. I would gather from stories that have come down that he ruled his family with something of an iron hand and believed in the maxim "spare the rod and spoil the child".

Kate, the oldest daughter and perhaps the oldest child died at eighteen and was buried in the Longs Run cemetery. All the other members of the family married and reared families save George, who went south where he died of yellow fever.

Of the six sons and three daughters who married and became heads of families, practically all settled in the vicinity of the paternal home. Their descendants, however, now numbering somewhere in the hundreds, are scattered through the different states of the union from New York to California and from Texas to Oregon.

Fulton Family
(excerpts from
History of McDonough Co., Ill.
1835)

James Fulton, a pioneer, of McDonough County, settled in Eldorado Township in 1836, removed thither from Vermont, Fulton Co., Ill. where he located the previous year. He was born in Fleming County, Kentucky, April 14, 1804. He was a grandson of Isaac Fulton, a native of Ireland, who came to the U. S. shortly after the close of the Revolution and settled in Baltimore. There he married Martha Work, by whom he had one son, Isaac, the father of James. Isaac Sr. was drowned soon after the birth of his son, Isaac. The son was raised in Virginia, but left that state when a young man to go to Kentucky where he married Mrs. Elizabeth Crail, nee Benington. By this union five children were born. Martha, John, Thomas, Isaac, and James.

James Fulton was married Jan. 31, 1826 in Fleming Co., Ken. to Mary Bonham and came to Sangamon Co., Ill. in 1829. In 1856 they moved from Eldorado township to Maconb township and in Nov. 1881 became residents of Maconb, where James Fulton died on Jan. 21, 1883. (See Fulton Bible records for 14 children.)

John Howland

"Gentleman, and Citizen and Saltar" of London. He was listed on the Mayflower as a servant of John Carver. Probably the outfit for the voyage was furnished to him by John Carver and the debt was to be paid in service, clerical or other; in no other sense was he a servant. He signed the compact of the Mayflower and was one of the principle men chosen to select the site for the colony. He was the father of nine children and was commander of the Kennebec Trading Post in 1634.

The Howland House built in 1666 on Sandwich Street in Plymouth was recently purchased by Howland descendants and in the Spring of 1913 was put in complete repair, designed as a place of annual meeting and for public visitation in the summer season.

Inscription on John Howland's Tombstone
Burial Hill in Plymouth, Mass.
Beyond and Above the Town Square

Here ended the Pilgrimage of John Howland who died February 23, 1672 or 3, aged above eighty years. He married Elizabeth, daughter of John Tilley who came with him in the Mayflower, December, 1620. From them are descended a numerous posterity.

Hee was a goodly man and an ancient professor in the ways of Christ. Hee was one of the first comers into this land and was the last man that was left of those that came over in the Shipp called the Mayflower, that lived in Plymouth.

From "Guide to Historic Plymouth."

An Incident Concerning John Howland which occurred on the Voyage of the Mayflower to America

"In one of the heaviest storms, while lying at Hull (lies with side nearly to wind and sea, head in direction of wind) a lusty young man, one of the passengers, John Howland by name, coming upon some occasion above the gratings (lattice covers for the hatches) was with the seel (roll) of the ship, thrown into the sea, but caught hold of the topsail halliards, which hung overboard and ran out at length; yet he held his hold, though he was sundry fathoms under water, 'till he was hauled up by the same rope to the brim of the water, and then with a boat hook and other means, got into the ship again and his life saved. He was something ill with it."

Elizabeth Tilley, Elder John Chipman and Mary Denny

Some authorities claim that John Tilly, Elizabeth's father, married first a daughter of John Carver and second, Bridget Van Der Velt, who was the mother of Elizabeth. After the death of her parents, Elizabeth lived in the Carver household until their death, when she was included in the family over which John Howland was considered the head. They were probably married sometime in 1623 or 1624 and she was ten or twelve years younger than her husband and he was 28 in 1620. They had nine children and Elizabeth lived to be past ninety. She died in 1687 at the home of a daughter, Lydia Howland Brown, in Swanzey.

Elder John Chipman was born in 1614 and came from England on the "Friendship" to Boston in 1631. He settled at Barnstable, Cape Cod, and was the ruling elder of the church in 1670. He married in 1646 Hope Howland, daughter of John Howland.

Robert Treat
by
Grace F. Hayward

Robert Treat, son of Richard Treat, was born in Pitminster, England in 1622, emigrating to Massachusetts in 1635, and moving to Westfield, Connecticut in 1637. In 1639 he moved to Milford where he spent the greater part of his life. At the age of 17 he was chosen to aid in the laying out of the town lands and from then on he was very active in the affairs of the towns and colonies, holding various offices.

In 1675 he was appointed commander-in-chief of troops raised to defend the colonies, during King Phillip's war and routed 800 Indian warriors, thereby saving Springfield, Northfield, and Hadley.

In 1676 after the death of governor Winthrop, Leete taking the office, Robert Treat was made deputy governor, which office he held until the death of Leete in 1683, when he became governor.

During his governorship, word was sent from England to Treat that Connecticut would have to give up her charter and be annexed into either New York or Massachusetts. Treat wrote a lengthy letter to the King of England begging him to allow Connecticut to keep her charter, but if the annexation must take place, asking that it be annexed to Massachusetts. A copy of this letter is in one of the short histories of Connecticut, written in the quaint spelling of the time. No reply came even after a second appeal.

As the story goes, the assembly was holding a session one day in the meeting house, when in walked Sir Edmund Andros, who came to make a formal demand for the charter, in the name of the King. Much parrying ensued by the various members when Treat took up the appeal and gave a narration of the history of the colony, depicting the hardships and dangers during the Indian wars with its long train of evils. He said that it was like giving up his own life now to give up the patent and privileges so dearly bought and so long enjoyed.

Sir Edmund Andros, smothering his annoyance at this lengthy speech as best he could, announced that the government by the people must end. The case had become desperate. The little democracy was driven into a corner; it must resist openly or make a formal surrender of the charter. But Treat had gained his end. It was growing dark, so the charter was brought in and the box containing it placed upon the table. Candles were brought in and placed near the box. A little more discussion followed, when suddenly the lights were blown out and Captain Wadsworth of Hartford carried off the Charter, hiding it in a hollow oak tree on the estate of the Wlyces, across the "riverette". So when the candles were relighted, the colony was no longer able to comply with Andros' request for a surrender. But later on they had to bow to an overpowering force.

The charter oak still lives in the hearts of Americans.

Old perchance as the heptarchy, this remarkable tree still speaks of the centuries, still points to those that are coming, the king of trees, the tree of liberty. A monument now marks the place where the tree stood.

For a brief time the colony was under the control of Andros, but Treat served on his council which was evidence that he was at least in part forgiven for the trick of losing the charter. After the withdrawal of Andros, Treat was restored to the governorship and held the office for fifteen years, retiring at the age of 76.

Robert Treat was an excellent military officer, possessing a quick sagacity, united with a breadth of understanding that enables him to see at a glance the most complex relations that surrounded the field of battle. "Few men" says Trumbull "have sustained a fair character or rendered the public more important service." The priceless services Robert Treat rendered to the colony during a critical period, have always been appreciatively recorded by the historians of the state. A bridge in Milford, Connecticut, commemorating early settlers, has a stone marked with his name.

In Newark, New Jersey, is the Robert Treat Hotel, dedicated a few years ago to his memory as a founder of Newark, his name heading the list of signers of the "Fundamental Agreement". A grandson, Robert Treat Payne, was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

During the courtship between Jane Tapp and Robert Treat, the story is that there had been such banter between the two over the spelling of Treat's name which had been variously spelled, Trost, Tratt and Treat. One day he drew her down on his knee and she said "I don't object to being "treated" but I do object to being "trotted". So the story ends, as all good stories do, they were soon married and lived happily ever after.

(Note)

The historic tree fell August 21, 1856, then supposed to be more than a thousand years old. The charter was thus left and can be seen in the State Library of Connecticut, and the Charter Oak has a part in the Connecticut history.

Tradition says that the tree was sacred to the Indians, a guide to their ancestors for centuries; and when its leaves were the size of mouse ears then the time for corn planting had arrived.

The following is a story written by a granddaughter of Daniel Baker, telling of an experience of his which occurred during the Revolutionary War.

GRANDMA'S STORY

by

Adelia Cobb

"I wish that I were older, that's what I do!" impatiently exclaimed Ralph as he tossed the morning's paper on the table.

"Why, my boy?" asked grandma, as she closed the book she had been reading, and slowly removed her glasses. "What would you do if you were older?"

"I'd be a soldier and fight for my country; that's what I'd do. The paper says that there will be a call for a hundred thousand soldiers in a few days to fight those miserable Spaniards and drive them out of Cuba. I'd just like to knock down a few of them and show them what kind of stuff American boys are made of. I'd rather be a brave soldier and help to win a great victory than be the richest man in America, but I'm too young to go, even as a drummer boy. I think that it is too bad; and you can't help either, old fellow," and Ralph threw himself down on the rug beside his dog--a big Newfoundland who looked up anxiously as though sympathizing with his young master's impatience.

"I'm not so sure that a dog can't help," said grandma; "besides, even brave soldiers don't always come off victorious. Your great-great-grandfather found that out."

"Why, was my great-great-grandfather a soldier?" asked Ralph, eagerly.

"Yes, he was a brave soldier, though he didn't win any victories and besides he would probably have lost his life but for a dog."

"Oh, tell me about him, grandma," and Ralph with the freedom of ten years, adjusted himself with hands lightly clasped behind his head, in listening attitude and with expectant face, on the rug beside the dog, while little eight-year old Alice, deserting her dolls, came and stood by her grandma's chair, eagerly awaiting her story.

"It was in the year 1775, over a hundred years ago, you see, when the people of this country were fighting to free themselves from England, and your great-great-grandfather, who was then twenty-one years of age, joined the army and went with a detachment of about one thousand soldiers, led by Benedict Arnold, to assist in taking Quebec."

"I hope that wasn't the Arnold who committed treason," interrupted Ralph.

"The very same," said grandma, "but during the first years of the war he was brave and loyal, and did everything he could for the colonies, and at this time he undertook something very difficult, for the journey overland to Quebec was through an almost unbroken wilderness, and perhaps no army ever suffered more than did Arnold and his men on that march.

"They started from Newburyport, Mass., and carried with them provisions for forty-five days. They went up the Kennebec River as far as possible in small boats or barges, but they found the way difficult, often being obliged to haul the boats long distances around waterfalls or against swift currents. But the way was harder yet after leaving the Kennebec, for there they were obliged not only to carry their stores and ammunition, but their boats as well, through a trackless forest, and often through swamps up to their waist in water. It was in the fall and was very cold. Their clothes became torn and worn and many of them were barefoot. Moreover their provisions began to fail. Of course there was some game but not enough to supply their wants, and they were obliged to eat the dogs that had followed them. On one occasion a small foraging party went out to hunt something in the way of game, and failing to find anything in the way of game they killed a dog that had kept them company and divided it by lots, there being but a small piece for each one. The tail fell to your great-great-grandfather, and he said that it was the sweetest morsel he ever tasted."

"Oh, grandma, how could he eat it?" exclaimed Alice.

"My dear, hunger is a wonderful relish, and he said he was so nearly starved at the time that he was on the point of lying down to die there in the forest, as so many of the men did, but the bit of meat so secured, so refreshed him that he thought he would make one more effort, and after that game became plentiful and he was able to go on.

"After carrying their boats thus about forty miles, they reached a river leading to the St. Lawrence, and again took to the water. Shortly after, when about seventy-five miles from Quebec, they came upon a rude house--the first sign of civilization that they had seen for over a month, and I have heard my grandfather tell how gladdened they were by the sight. In time they reached Quebec, but of the thousand that started, scarcely more than six hundred remained."

"Did they take Quebec?" eagerly asked Ralph.

"No, but they were very brave, and would have taken it but for the death of their leader, Montgomery."

"Did your grandfather get safely home?" asked Alice.

"Yes, the soldiers who survived made their way back as best they could, but many of them perished on the road. Grandfather, when he reached home, was so ragged and unkempt that his own family could scarcely recognize him.

"When some miles from home he stopped at a farm house and asked for something to eat, but was so repulsive in appearance that the woman who came to the door was about to order him away as an ordinary beggar when her daughter, a girl of fifteen, thinking his tattered headgear resembled a military cap, asked him if he had been a soldier, whereupon he told them his story, and then they were glad enough to set the best they had before him, and the thoughtfulness of the daughter so impressed him that some time after, when he had recovered from the effects of the wilderness march, and was restored to manly bearing, he returned, sought out this young lady, courted her and married her, and she was your great-great-grandmother."

"Oh, grandma, wasn't that fine?" exclaimed Alice, "and did you hear him tell the story?"

"Yes, I have heard him tell it many times. You know he lived with my father in his old age, and nothing pleased him more than to talk of those days. He was proud of his march to Quebec, too, although the expedition failed. So you see, Ralph, that to be a soldier doesn't always mean the glory of battle and great victories. There is a patriotism of peace as well as of war, and while it is noble to die for one's country, it may be equally noble to live for her, to study her interests, to be faithful, law-abiding citizens, and take an active interest in securing good men for office. That is a kind of patriotism our country sorely needs just now, and I'm not sure but it is of as high an order as that displayed by the men who are offering themselves to fight the Spaniards."

Ralph seemed buried in thought a few minutes, then, glancing out of the window, he jumped up, exclaiming, "The rain is over. Come on, Dash," and, as he bounced out, followed by his dog, grandma smiled, and fell back into quiet dreams of her childhood.

PARKINSON HISTORY

By Katharine Parkinson Andrews

September 25, 1912

Scotland, the land of the Scottish Chiefs and of the brave Huguenots, was the home of the great-grand-father of the present generation of Parkinsons.

Hugh Parkinson and Katharine Brown, his wife, came over in a sailing vessel and after a voyage of 3 months, landed at Charlestown, S. C. in the year 1763. They settled on a farm in the Abbeyville District. Four children were born to them: John, Martha, Brown and Hugh. The father and mother both died before the youngest child was two years old.

The children met with the hardships of most orphans, their house burned and $4,000 in gold which was secreted in it, missing as there were no banks in those days, but when John, the oldest, was grown he married Elizebeth Clark and gave them all a home, taking them and his family, he moved to Lincoln County, Tenn. where Martha married Samuel Sloan and Brown married Mary Moore. Many of their descendants live there yet near Fayetteville.

When Hugh, the youngest was 19 years old he enlisted in a South Carolina regiment and served through the War of 1812 until Packerham was defeated and slain and his body sent home to England in a cask of alcohol to be buried.

When Hugh, my father, returned, he located his was claim near Fayetteville, Tenn., gave his sister Martha Sloan 20 acres on which to build a church and for a cemetery for the dead. The church was called Prosperity and Prosperity it remains to this day, telling the good news and the cemetery a resting place for the dead who are laid down one by one as the years go by.

My mother, Hugh Parkinson's wife, was Janet Moore. Her parents were from Ireland--John Moore and Martha Garner Moore. I should have said that our great-grand-parents were Scotch Presbyterians of the old Covenant faith, they were zealous in their observance of the Sabbath, preparing our food, baking bread, grinding coffee and blacking the shoes on Saturday.

Father had a family of nine children, all born in Tennessee except Leander, who was born at Princeton, Indiana. He left Tennessee on account of slavery, moved to Princeton in 1835, from there to Walnut Hill in Illinois, where my mother died on December 4th, 1848. Their children were Martha, Mary, an infant that died, John, James, Katharine, William, Rebecca and Leander.

Martha married Alexander McWilliams. They had 2 boys, Hugh and Silas. The father died, she afterwards married Miller Smith. They had 2 boys. Harvey lives in Kansas. Theodore and family live in Centralia, his boys are fine R R men.

Hugh and Silas both enlisted in Co. C. 11th, Ill. Hugh died soon after the battle of Fort Donnellson, effects of exposure. Silas served 4 years. An honored veteran, he married Rose Silburn. Their son Hugh and mother live in Chicago. Two little girls died. Silas was killed at Pana on F.T.R.R. in 1872. Mary married William Cunningham, a resident of Walnut Hill, afterwards moved to Centralia. Their three children: Theophilus, Henrietta and Gertrude. T.H. married Eleanor Murphy. Their only daughter, little Mary Gertrude, died. Henrietta married J. R. Randall. Their 2 children: Louis and Mary. Louis is an engineer on the Frisco at Enid, Okla. Mary and her husband Logan Thompson live at Sapcoba, Okla. Gertrude, after having given her services at Home Missionary in the South from the Baptist Church, died at Centralia, Jan. 2, 1894.

The father and mother both having died, John Parkinson married Sarah Jaynes. Their children: Addie, wife of Frank Snyder, who died leaving a family of children who live in this city. Annie, who with her husband Ely Draig and their children, all live in Centralia.

William F. married Clara Wright. They with their children are nearby farmers, honest tillers of the soil. John, the father, served 4 years as a veteran of the 11th Illinois. James Parkinson and wife Ann Warren had 4 children: Fred, T.K., James, and Junea Warne. Fred married Kate Dupuy and with their children live near Waverly, Ill. T.K. and James G. are R R conductors on the L.C.R.R. Junia lives with her mother at Centralia.

Katharine married S. S. Andrews. Rosa, their daughter, Mrs. J. W. Larmier, George lives at Flora, Illinois, Charlie at Seattle, Washington, LuLu (Mrs. H. T. Sweeny) and family live at Salem, Warren in Cincinnati.

William married Sarah A. Cunningham. Their children: Oscar and Zettie of Centralia. Ov and wife, Mora Bangarner, and their boys, Chester and Vernon. William enlisted in the 11th Ill. Afterwards he was made Captain of a Company in a Louisiana Reg. Died at Milliken's Bend, La. of sickness.

Rebecca married Dr. McKellog of Sparta. Both died leaving one son who lives at Portland, Oregon. Leander married Clara Warren. She had 2 daughters, Mamie and Pella, died afterward. His second wife was Ke-tie Kell. Their daughter, Mara, a graduate of Ann Harbor, Mich, and ~~lives~~ of Mexico City, is with us.

Hugh Parkinson and wife and daughter, Martha, and her son Hugh McWilliams lie buried at the old Coventer Church. The other children of his family all at rest in the Silent City at Centralia, except the only survivor, Mrs. Andrews of Salea.

Of the Parkinsons, only two have been ministers: Thomas, late of Fayetteville, and Gilbery Parkinson, at New De West College, S. C.

Nearly all are professing Christians, the exceptions being the nicest kind of sinners.

(Many changes have come since Aunt Kate wrote this.)

From "The Walker Book"

"Rev. Samuel Rutherford was born in 1600. It is that he is the father of Rev. John Rutherford who married Isabel Alleine. Rev. Samuel was born in the S.E. part of Scotland, near the river Tweed, in the village of Nisbet, Roxburgshire, and died Mar. 20, 1661. He received his early education at Jedburg, and when he entered the University of Edenburg in 1617, he was regarded as a precocious youth. He graduated in 1621, taking a Master's degree, and two years later was elected to the chair of Logic and Belles-letters in his University. He prepared to preach the gospel, and it was under the most favorable circumstances that he was sent as a minister in the parish of Anworth in Kirkcudbright. At that time he was considered the most prominent preacher in those Scottish coasts. The church stood in a wide valley at the foot of Boreland Hill, on which a monument 60 ft. high was erected in 1842. This was in memory of Rutherford, and seems to remind the people of Anworth how God once visited His people there.

While at Anworth he passed thru much sorrow. In 1630 his first wife Euphenia Hamilton, died there, and soon afterwards he lost his dearest friend, Lord Kenmure. In 1640 he married Jean McMath, and she with their daughter Agnes, were the only members of his immediate family who survived him.

The same characteristics that made Samuel Rutherford an able member of the important theological bodies of his day, have made descendants of his family staunch defenders of the faith in America and pioneers in the establishment of religious work in the Colonial days, God-fearing, self-respecting members of the community where-ever their lives may have fallen into them.

After Rutherford's sojourn in London, and his labors in the Assembly, he returned to St. Andrews. He was from time to time offered the chair of Divinity both at Harderwijk and Utrecht, but declined the honors. As to his literary efforts, they were begun at Leuwerth and continued actively thro his banishment to Aberdeen. His things were considered classics. When Charles II came to the throne he summoned Rutherford to appear in England on a charge of high treason. The message found him ill unto death. He sent word that he had a summons from a higher king--a "Superior Judge"--and was soon going where "few kings or great men ever come". He had been Rector of the University at Aberdeen for 13 yrs.. When the news of his illness reached Charles II, he proposed to vote that Rutherford should not die as rector of the University. Lord Burleigh rose and said: "You can not vote him out of heaven."

Rutherford

"The father of Katherine Rutherford Walker was John Rutherford, of an ancient and honorable family in Teviotdale, Scotland, celebrated in story and ballade as hard fighting, adventurous soldiers. One account represents this John Rutherford to have been the son, another asserts that he was the nephew or full first cousin, of Rev. Samuel Rutherford, the able and learned author of "Rutherford Letters", one of the seven delegates from Scotland to the noted Westminster Assembly, and one of the very foremost, ablest and bravest of the leaders of the Scotch Presbyterian Church." (Spragues Annals)

"The two were certainly of the same blood and very nearly related. Whatever the degree of kinship, the connexion could add nothing of honor to the characters or reputations of the gifted, brave, pious descendants of John Rutherford in America. The wife of John Rutherford was a descendant of Rev. Joseph Alarin." (From Green's Kentucky Families.)

The brother of Katherine Rutherford, James Rutherford, married Margaret McMahon. Their daughter, Elizabeth, married Hugh Hudson. Elizabeth and Hugh Hudson came to America in October, 1738 and settled in Maryland.

Inscription on Bronze Tablet in "Unity Cemetery

UNITY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Long prior to 1776, when an alien flag yet floated over our country, the settlers of this pioneer region were accustomed to assemble on this hill to worship God.

By instrument of writing dated March 1st, 1774, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania granted sixty acres of land, "In trust for the use of the Presbyterian Congregation--in order to erect a Meeting House and for a Burial Ground."

A log building was erected here which was used by the Unity Congregation as a house of worship until 1830.

During the year 1830 a handsome, well-appointed, brick church building was erected 200 feet east of this spot. There a large congregation met regularly for service until 1874.

During the year 1874 a new and attractive brick building was erected for a house of worship on a wooded knoll about 1,000 feet to the southeast; this building was used as a place of worship until 1920, when by action of the Congregation on October 11th of that year, the Church organization was dissolved and the property was transferred to a corporation known as the Unity Cemetery Association.

Through the thoughtful generosity of Charles H. McLaughlin, of Latrobe, Old Unity's history dating back 155 years or more, now is commemorated in enduring granite and bronze.

The tablet, bearing the historical data given above, is three by four feet in dimensions, and is of artistic workmanship.

On the rear side of the monument is a small tablet bearing the inscription:

"To Keep Alive the Tie That Joins the Present to the Past, This Memorial Was Erected in 1929 by Charles H. McLaughlin, of Latrobe, Pa., in memory of the Old Unity Churches."

It was coincident with General Forbes' march to Fort Duquesne that hardy pioneers settled in Unity township. Many of them were of Scotch and Irish descent,--the Proctors, Finleys, Louchrys, Sloans, Craigs, Allisons, Waddells, Greers, Hunters, Coulters, and others,--and the desire to congregate for religious devotions soon found expression.

In the year 1774 a petition for a grant of land "For a site for a Presbyterian Meeting House and Burial Ground," signed by Samuel Sloan, Joseph Irwin and Robert Hanna,--was presented to John and Thomas Penn, descendants of William Penn.

Mr. C. H. McLaughlin concluded his dedicatory remarks with the following:

"Unity Church's work is done. Perhaps she has little need of this stone; but we human beings have need of it, for our own admonition, lest we forget, lest we forget."
