"We have deemed the publication of these rare things of their kind, although so unpretending, to be worthy of mention among the notabilities of true musical art. We trust every one, who has any love for music, and who wishes to reproduce to himself from time to time that exquisite and soul-refreshing spectacle of the Flower-Dance and the Sheaf Dance and the rest, will procure a copy of this music. The whole secret of every beautiful step, figure and combination seems to reside in its strains, which are the perfection at once of simplicity and of art. The taking, fascinating character of these little melodies, will doubtless give a first impulse to many young pianists, and win them to study, by pure attraction."—Harbinger.

NEW PIECES will be issued almost daily, under the superintendence of a Professor of Music, of acknowledged taste and talent, and will consist of the best compositions of the modern style, as well as the best theoretical works that can be obtained.

A complete assortment, with all new music, received as soon as issued, always on hand, from all the publishers in the United States.

BERTINI'S METHOD FOR THE PIANO. The popularity which this Work has obtained for itself, is the highest recommendation that can be bestowed on its excellence. It has now reached its sixth edition, having been published three years. The simplicity of the elementary portion of the work, its application and illustration, by means of marginal notes, whereby the different characters in music are introduced to the notice of the pupil, one by one, illustrated by examples and exercises; the chaste and beautiful melodies, composed expressly for the work, in all the different keys and movements, make this Method distinguished above all others, and greatly reduces the labor in learning the Piano.

Testimonials of the first piano-forte performers, and professors of music, in the country, are in the possession of the publishers.

N. B. Persons purchasing this Method, should be particular, and see that it bears the names of E. H. WADE and W. H. OAKES, as publishers, as this is the only correct edition.

The Musical Profession will be supplied with the above music, as well as all other publications, at a liberal discount from retail prices.

Piano Fortes for sale and to let, as above; also, tuned and repaired.

Instruments and Merchandise, warranted equal to any in the market, at manufacturers' prices. Pieces marked with a star (*) have vignette titles.
