

WITH THE CAMERA ALONG PATHS OF CURRENT INTEREST

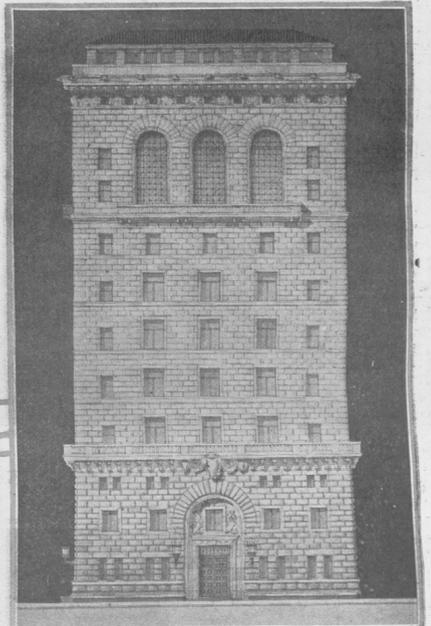

ONLY PHOTOGRAPH OF THE PRESENT UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.
 Back Row, Left to Right—Justices Joseph R. Lamar, Charles E. Hughes, Willis Van Devanter, and Mahlon Pitney. Front Row—Justices William R. Day and Joseph McKenna, Chief Justice Edward Douglas White, Justices Oliver W. Holmes and Horace H. Lurton.
 (Photo (C) by Harris & Ewing.)

NEW PICTURE OF ELIHU ROOT.

New York's senior United States Senator, to whom was recently awarded the Nobel Peace Prize, is favored as a Presidential candidate by Andrew Carnegie, ex-President Taft, and others.
 (Photo by Brown Bros.)

INNOVATION IN COURT HOUSE ARCHITECTURE.

Part of This East Side Structure Is to Be Devoted to a Jail, Which Will Fill the Four Top Floors, Instead of Being Partly Below the Street Level Like Old-Time Prisons. The Design Is by Alfred Hopkins, Who Won Against Nine Others in the Competition Arranged by George McAneny, Borough President. The Building, Which Will Be at Second Street and Second Avenue, Is to Take the Place of Ludlow Street Jail, Essex Market Court, and the East Side Municipal Court House.

TENNIS EXPERT AS A GOLFER.
 H. L. Doherty, the Famous British Wielder of the Racquet, Has Become Almost as Skillful on the Links as He Was on the Courts.
 (Photo by Paul Thompson.)

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER AT GOLF IN DECEMBER.
 In This Picture, Taken on the Oil Man's Links Near Cleveland, He Is Seen with Elbert Hubbard (Left) and the Rev. W. W. Bustard.
 (Photo (C) by Cleveland Leader.)

Family Portraiture Outdoors---Novelty of an English Painter

Carlton Moorepark, Who Has Moved from London to Washington Square, Was Recently Asked to Paint Portraits of Daniel E. Moran, the Well-Known Consulting Engineer, and His Family. The Artist Suggested That, as the Morans Were Enthusiasts on Outdoor Life, It Would Be a Novel Plan to Paint Them in the Open, at Their Home in Mendham, N. J. This Panel, Painted in Three Parts and Framed to Form One Picture, Is the Result. From Left to Right, the Members of the Family Are Daniel E., Jr., Sylvestre, Archie, Mrs. Moran, Hugh, Mr. Moran, and Dorothy.