

"IT FILLS ME WITH DEEP EMOTION TO BE ON THIS SACRED SPOT": GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING, the A. E. F.'s Commander in Chief, a Guest of Philadelphia While on His Way to the National Capital, Saluting the Liberty Bell in Independence Hall.

(© International Film Service.)

IKE E. TIBBEN, 84 Years Old, of Philadelphia, Wearing at the Fifty-third G. A. R. Reunion at Columbus, Ohio, the Exact Equipment with Which He Marched Away to the War with the 71st Pennsylvania Regiment in '61. Only the Umbrella Now Replaces the Rifle, Long Ago, Like Rip Van Winkle's, Crumbled with Rust.

(Times Wide World Photos.)

GENERAL PERSHING ARRIVES IN WASHINGTON ON THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE BATTLE OF ST. MIHIEL, First All-American Assault on a Grand Scale in the World War, Floral Tributes of the Nation's Representatives Lying at His Feet.

Standing on Either Side of Him Are Vice President Thomas R. Marshall, Who Greeted Him in the President's Name, and General Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff, While Immediately Behind Appears the Symbolic Figure of the Statue of Liberty.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

GUARDSMEN TO BOSTON'S AID WHEN HER POLICE FAILED HER: MASSACHUSETTS MILITIA, at the Point of the Bayonet, Rounding Up a Great Company of Hooligans and Street Gamblers, Plying Their Games About the Great Fountain on the Boston Common.

(© International Film Service.)

FORMER PRESIDENT WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT Putting on the Links at Pointe-a-Pic, Quebec, Canada, Where He Is Spending the Early Autumn Days.

(From Times Wide World Photos.)

THE LAST REMNANT OF GENERAL GEORGE CUSTER'S COMMAND GATHERED AT THIS YEAR'S G. A. R. REUNION AT COLUMBUS, OHIO, Their Memorial Cannon Made from Bits of Brass Picked on the Field of "Custer's Last Fight."

(Times Wide World Photos.)

TWO OF THE WORLD'S BEST-KNOWN PRINCES OF THE CHURCH: CARDINALS MERCIER OF BELGIUM AND GIBBONS OF BALTIMORE, AT THE HOME OF CARDINAL GIBBONS.

(© International Film Service.)