

Our Soldier Boys Here and Overseas Prepare for

Colonel Hine of the 165th Infantry (the old 69th) smilingly entertains Colonel Roosevelt in Camp at Mineola last Sunday.

The open air barber shop of the 23d at Van Cortlandt Park, where the regiment is temporarily in camp before leaving for Spartanburg. Barber W. H. Hubbell is giving Private H. Le Messurier as close a shave as he will probably ever get overseas. International Film.

The headquarters company of the 22d New York Engineers arrive with colors flying at Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C. The type of barracks nestled among the pines in which the men will be quartered is plainly shown. International Film.
