

Left—If disapproved—that the New York go to bed roadway from the Wool-the Equitable Building. Publishers' Photo Service.

Right—It isn't so bad to be a ticket agent on the B. R. T. If you rise too late for breakfast prepare your own at the office. Jack Buseman.

Mr. Winston Churchill, recently appointed Secretary of State for War in the new English Ministry. He saw active service during the war as major of the Queen's Own Oxfordshire Hussars. Underwood.

Bust of General John J. Pershing, by Clio Bracken. It has met with the unqualified approval of those critics who would be most difficult to please—"Black Jack's" officers and personal friends. Gertrude A. Brugman.

An Italian dirigible in Eastern waters, rescued from trouble by a British motor launch patrol. The bombs and explosives carried by the dirigible were safely removed and the airship towed to port. Underwood & Underwood.

Police duty in Fiume, the fate of which, claimed now by both France. In the meanwhile, it is occupied by the Allied armies. Western Newspaper Union.

This is the way school children in Japan celebrated the armistice. Their gestures are graceful and decorous, and they are shouting "Banzai!" which is Japanese for our "Hurrah!" Central News Service.

Left—A domesticated whippet tank following peaceful agricultural pursuits. Small tanks, metamorphosed into farm tractors, are going to do much to aid the French farmer. Underwood & Underwood.

Three decorated negro officer heroes of the 369th and 370th, just back from France: Major J. R. White, Lieut. Col. O. B. Duncan and Lieut. W. J. Warfield. Lieut. Col. Duncan is our highest ranking colored officer. Tribune Service.

Right—Major Helen Russell Bastedo, head of the Motor Corps of America, which has done such valiant service during the war. From a photograph taken at the headquarters of the corps.