

THE NEW BRITISH DIRIGIBLE, THE DISTINCTIVE FEATURES OF WHICH ARE THE CAR, ENGINES, AND PROPELLER OF AN AEROPLANE, RETURNING TO ITS HANGAR AT SALONIKI, AFTER RECONNOISSANCE.

(Photo © by International Film Service.)

Highest Decorations in the Gift of the Allied Nations Presented on Their Behalf by President Poincare to the City of Verdun in Honor of Her Defense Against the German Siege.

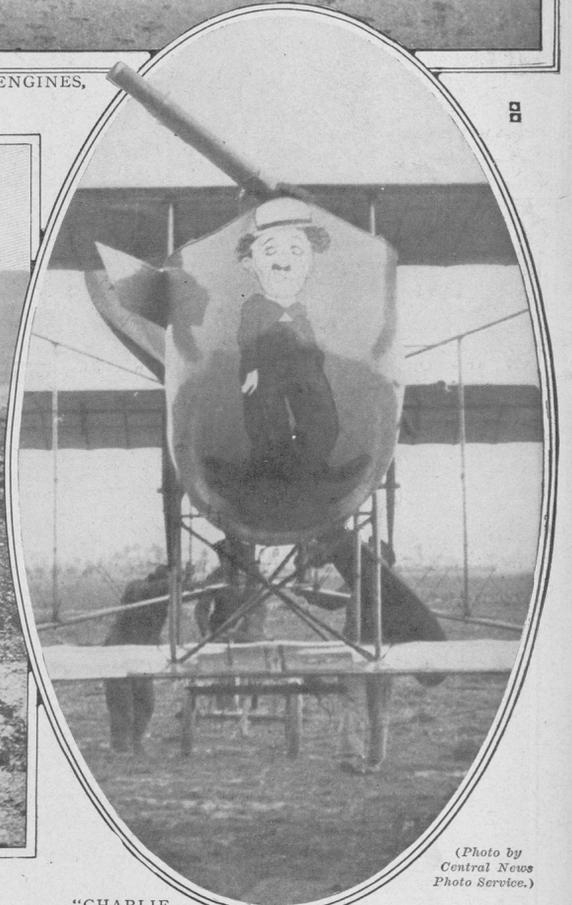

In the group are, top: The Military Order of St. George, Russia; second row, Military Cross, England; Legion of Honor, France; Cross of War, France; Cross for Valor, Italy. Bottom row: Serbian Medal for Valor; the Leopold Cross, Belgium; and the Gold Medal of Montenegro.

(Photo from Underwood & Underwood.)

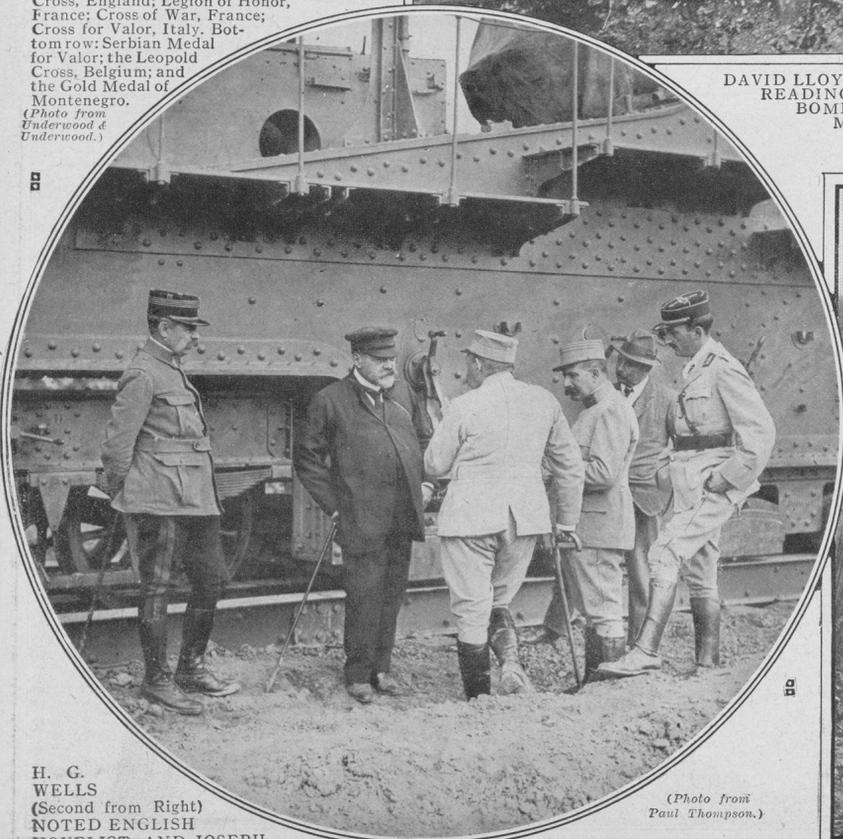

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE, BRITISH MINISTER OF WAR, AND LORD READING, LORD CHIEF JUSTICE OF ENGLAND, VIEWING A BOMBARDMENT ON THE BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE. M. Emile Thomas, French Minister of Munitions, Can Be Seen Standing Behind Lord Reading on the Extreme Left.

(Photo by Central News Photo Service.)

"CHARLIE CHAPLIN," Painted on a Belgian Aeroplane, Does Duty on the Side of the Allies as a Mascot.

(Photo by Central News Photo Service.)

H. G. WELLS (Second from Right) NOTED ENGLISH NOVELIST, AND JOSEPH REINACH, FRENCH JOURNALIST,

On the Front in France, Asking French Artillery Officers Regarding the Operations of the New Monster Howitzer Trains Which Travel on Iron Rails Wherever Most Needed.

(Photo from Paul Thompson.)

MR. LLOYD GEORGE AND LORD READING, AT THE FRONT IN FRANCE, STANDING WITH BARED HEADS BESIDE THE GRAVES OF BRITISH SOLDIERS.

(Photo by American Press From Medem.)