WAR'S ECHOES JUMP FROM SALONIKA TO OTTAWA

A bridge in Serbia at the moment it was destroyed by the retreating army of King Peter.

© International News Service.

Germany and Bulgaria are reported to have begun the long awaited advance on Salonika. Here are some of the barbed wire entanglements that await them and the French and English digging their defence trenches.

© International News Service.

The still smoking ruins of the Canadian Houses of Parliament at Ottowa. The fire which wrecked them is ascribed to a German spy or sympathizer.

© International News Service.

David Desjardin (with crowbar) searching in the ruins of the Commons Chambers for the bodies of his brother and uncle.

© International News Service.