

The War of the World in the Air

From film photos of "Germany at War," produced by Samuel Cummins.

A Zeppelin exploding after being hit by bombs from an Allied monoplane.

A German Taube attacking a French hangar. The Taube is passing over an observation balloon which it has put out of commission.

Bombs fired from French aerial artillery bursting around a German Taube.

The Nieuport battle plane, used by the French airmen, allows the aviator to fire without reference to the position of the propellor blades.

David and Goliath. A French monoplane in pursuit of a Zeppelin.

A German Taube putting one of the Allied battle planes out of action.