

The Pretended Bridge Raid—John Otis pays

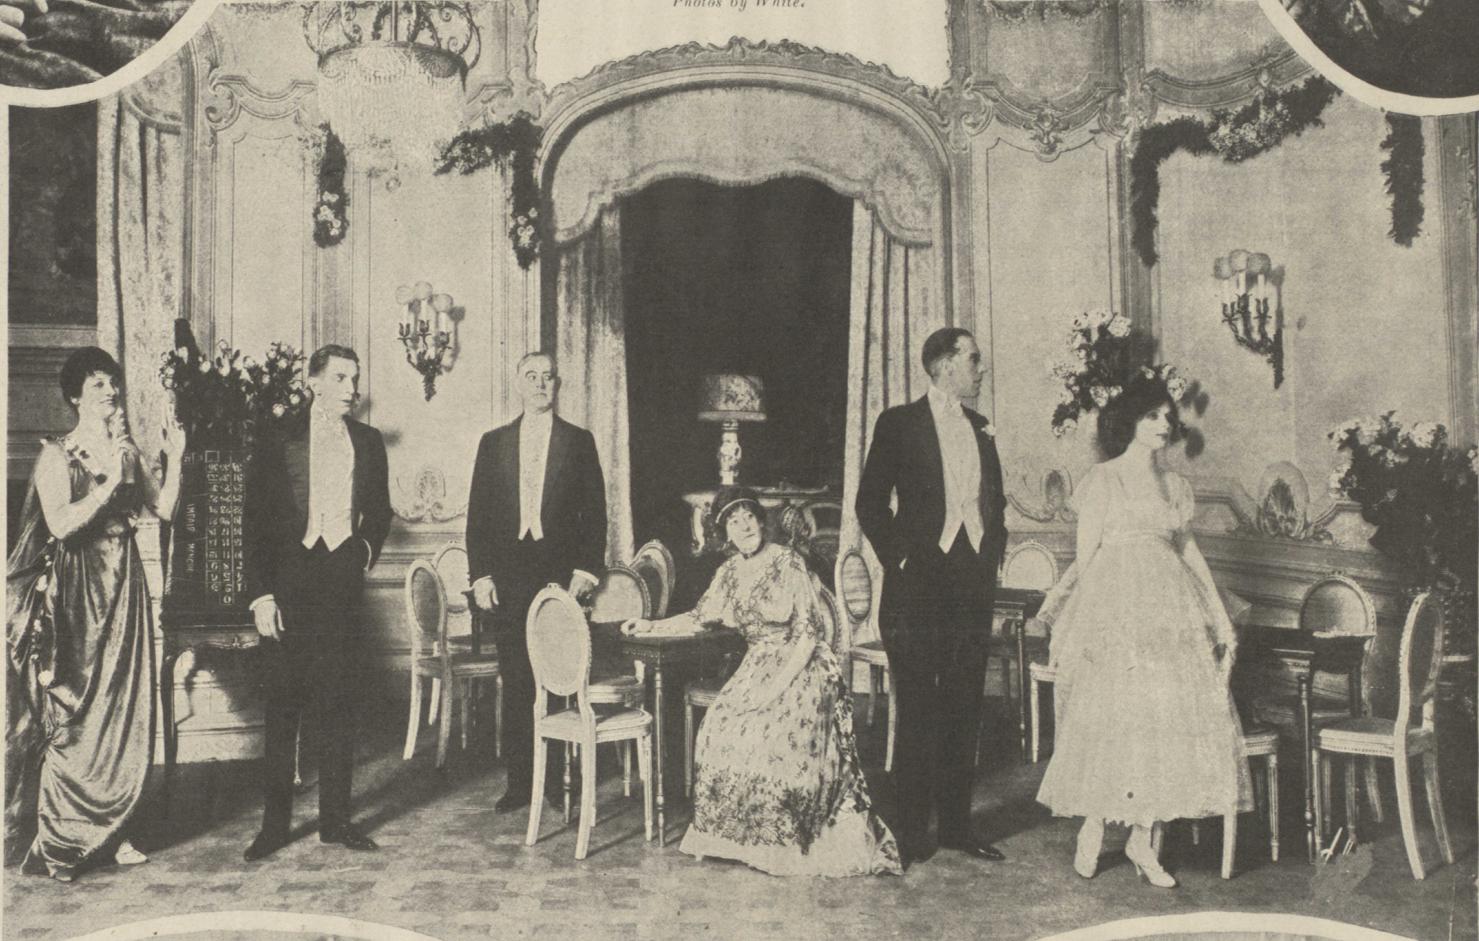

FIXING SISTER IS A BIT OF A TASK, BUT WILLIAM HODGE ACCOMPLISHES IT NICELY.

the policemen for closing sister's society den.

Photos by White.

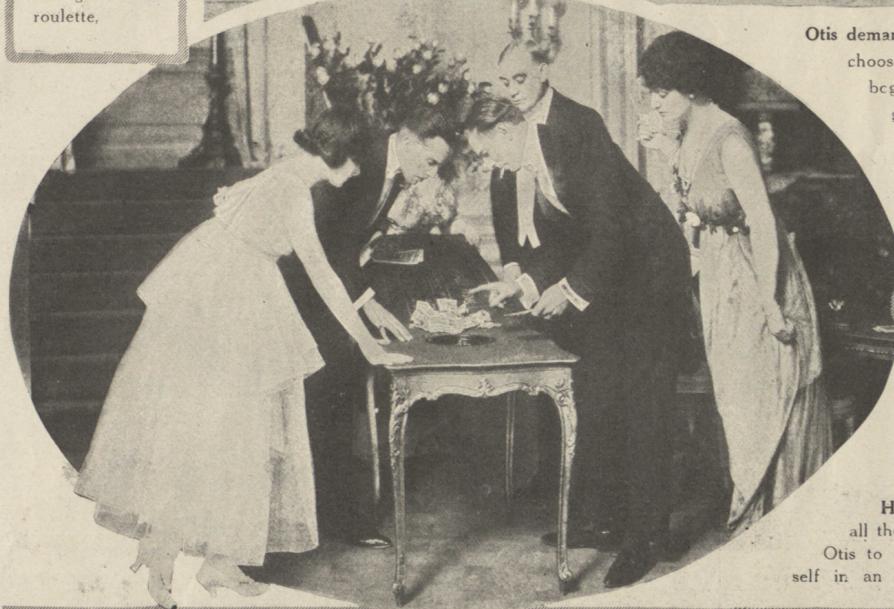

Miriam Collins, who, as Abbey Sexton, persuades John Otis (William Hodge) that sister isn't the only girl in the world.

William Hodge comes from Kansas City to find his sister laid low by bridge fever and running a cent-a-point temperature.

Sister (Jane Wheatley) and her friends, unconscious of the impending raid, have a try at the game of roulette.

Sister informs brother she plans to sue for her share of their joint fortune. Brother is unperturbed.

Otis demands that the girl he loves choose between him and begus Lord Haggett (Hamilton Deane)

Lord Haggett draws all the crowd, leaving Otis to converse with himself in an unoccupied corner.

